How Reds Worked

Operations of Four Russian Spy Rings In Capital Revealed

White's Action in Handing Soviets 'Occupation Marks' Plates Bared

(Second in a Series)
By ELIZABETH BENTLEY
North American Newspaper Alliance

NEW YORK—Harold Glasser, shown in recent disclosures to have been promoted in the Treasury Department despite adverse FBI reports, was a member of one of the two spy rings which were under my "control" in Washington. I shall have more to say about the operations of these two rings later on. But, I should like to relate here the strange circumstances which led to my discovery of a third espionage ring through the agent Glasser.

In my position as go-between for my two spy rings and the Soviet secret police representatives in New York, I did not deal with Glasser directly. Whatever documents and information he stole from the Treasury files were handed over to his chief, Victor Perlo, later economic analyst for the Treasury's Division of Monetary Research, but then with the War Production Board.

Perlo, in turn, handed them over to me for transmission to my Soviet chief when I met him in New York. Unless it was disregarded for very unusual circumstances, it was an inflexible rule that our American agents have as little to do as possible with their superiors in the conspiracy.

However, reports kept reaching me that Glasser was trying desperately to learn who I was and to make contact with me. It was reported that he was dissatisfied with his role as a member of the Perlo group. At best, Perlo was a nervous irascible, taut man and Glasser apparently found it difficult to function under his direction. Glasser wanted to make a new contact.

I began to make inquiries about Glasser from the other agents. It developed that Glasser for a short time had been separated from the Perlo group. He had been taken out, turned over to a man who was in direct contact with the Russians—and then returned to the Perlo group.

Although I was high in the espionage hierarchy, there were areas of activity about which I knew nothing. I made an effort to discover who this man was. At first, I could find out nothing. Then, Charlie Kramer, who was working for the Kilgore committee and kept me apprised of Capitol Hill developments, told me the man who turned Glasser over temporarily to direct Soviet control was somebody in the State Department — somebody named Alger Hiss.

This to me was positive evidence that a third spy ring, of which Hiss was a member, was in operation in Washington.

THEN, ON ANOTHER occasion, my own Soviet contact let it slip that yet a fourth spy group was functioning in government. This was no idle hearsay. It came from a man whose sole function in the U. S. was to know about the activities of these groups and whose very life was forfeit upon his return to Russia if he failed in his mission.

I was convinced then as I am today that these two groups were patterned after those which were assigned to me. The activities of my groups have been exposed, their conspiracies smashed and their members subpoenaed.

But nothing has been heard about the other two rings.

Now, let it be clearly understood—and I speak from long experience with the Soviet mentality—that the Russians will never willingly give up a productive espionage contact. They are stubborn, resourceful and arrogant to no reason to suppose they called a halt to the other two spy rings unless it no longer suited their purposes.

BUT HOW COULD these rings do anything but fulfill the needs of the Soviet espionage system? Especially when American agents can produce such fantastic results as those involved in the "occupation Marks" episode.

In 1945, the Russian espionag system learned that the U. S.

ROKs First To Face U.N. Interviewers

30 Allied Prisoners In Group Slated To Be Questioned Tomorrow

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Allied war prisoners who haven't come home tomorrow begin considering their big choice—democracy or communism.

Plans were completed today for U. N. interviewers to start talks with 30 of the 328 South Koreans who have not returned.

11-Day Job

After the South Koreans are finished—about 11 days of interviews—the Allied teams will face possibly the most important phase of their job—trying to win back 22 Americans and 1 Briton.

The big question is: How many?

The Communists wooed back only about 3 per cent of the 2,500 Chinese and Koreans they have interviewed—a humiliating propaganda walloping.

"We want all of the prisoners listed as pro-Communist to get freedom of choice," a U. N. Command spokesman said.

"We want people all over the world to understand that the UNC is willing to give these prisoners a free choice—even if they choose the Communists."

Believe ROKs Will Listen

An Allied officer said he believes the 30 ROKs would agree to come out for the first day's talks.

The Allied effort will open with five South Korean interviewers, one at each of the five explanation sites requested. The Communists used up to three men in each explanation tent, but the repatriation commission allows the Allies only five at any one time.

Some of the ROK prisoners are known to be dedicated Communists who will never return.

When the Communists began their own talks last Oct. 15, their explainers were screamed at, spat upon, kicked, hit with flying chairs and called every obscene word in the Chinese and Korean languages.

The Allies hope to get back a

Former Mental Patient Shoots Wrong Doctor

DETROIT (AP)—Dr. Edward D. Spalding, 60, a noted heart specialist, left his office in Detroit's Professional Building and stepped into the busy street.

A few minutes later he lay dead on the pavement, police said, shot by a former mental patient who got the wrong man.

Barely half an hour later, two rookie patrolmen grabbed John Sherback, 51, a few blocks away. In Sherback's pocket was a list of persons he had condemned to death, they said. Spalding's name was not included.

Police said the list included 'all the orderlies and one nurse in a building at Eloise," a mental hospital. Sherback looked dazed when he was told the man he had killed was Spalding.

Police said Sherback was held on a murder charge.

He said that he had meant to kill Dr. William T. McAlonan, who he claimed had mistreated him. McAlonan was still in his office at the Professional Building at the time of the shooting.

McAlonan said that the last time he had treated Sherback was in 1943. He said that he had received a letter from Dr. Henry Luce asking about Sherback because he had been admitted to Eloise as a mental patient.

Dr. Luce was head of the consultation department at the hospital.

Sherback had mentioned the names of several doctors and others in the City Health Department that he intended to kill.

He said he was mad at all doctors because they "refused to give me a clean bill of health so I could get married eight years ago."

Policeman in Circleville Beaten Up After Chase

CIRCLEVILLE, Ohio (AP)—A Circleville policeman said he was beaten last night at the climax of a chase during which he fired nine shots at a speeding car.

When the car halted, Policeman John Lockhart, 47, said he was attacked by two men. He suffered a possible broken nose and other face and body lacerations.

The eight-mile chase ended near Williamsport.

Lockhart said the men drove away when sheriff's deputies arrived.

Vishinsky Brands Charges Of Korean Atrocities False

U.S. POWER IN KOREA. While talk of a peace parley goes on and on in Korea, American troops and equipment are being kept on the alert, ready for any eventuality. Here, men and tanks form an interesting pattern of armored power during a review of the 45th Armored Division.

Claims U.S. 'Dynamiting' Peace Chance

'Flagrantly Concocted Falsification,' Soviet Delegate Says in U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky today branded U.S. charges of Red Atrocities in Korea a "flagrantly concocted falsification."

The fiery Soviet delegate told the 60-nation U. N. General Assembly charges detailed yesterday by Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. of the United States were brought out to "dynamite" peace negotiations in Korea.

Pulls Out All Stops

He pulled out all stops in calling the Lodge report "cynical," "cowardly," "a maneuver to cover the worst crimes of all perpetrated by the American military circles in Korea," and "redolent of slander."

Vishinsky was the first speaker at this morning's session, called to debate the American charges that some 38,000 persons were victims of atrocities committed by Communist Chinese and North Korean soldiers.

The Soviet bloc, counting on the neutral nations to stay out of the debate and abstain from voting, apparently is determined to fight tooth and nail the whole atrocity issue.

India already has served notice that as head of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission in Korea, she will neither speak nor vote. Other neutrals, especially members of the Arab-Asian bloc, also are expected to keep silent.

There was little evidence, however, that the Soviet bloc would receive any over support in the debate.

Most delegates sat in shocked silence yesterday as Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. delivered the stark atrocity report and introduced a resolution calling on the 60-nation Assembly to:

Lodge Resolution

1. Express "its grave concern at reports and information that North Korean and Chinese Communist forces have, in a large number of instances, employed inhuman practices against the heroic soldiers of forces under the United Nations Command in Korea and against the civilian population of Korea";

2. Condemn "the commission by any government or authorities of murder, mutilation, torture, and other atrocity acts against captured military personnel or civilian population, as a violation of rules of international law and basic standards of conduct and morality and as affronting human rights and the dignity and worth of the human person."

In his speech Lodge raised the earlier U. S. figure of nearly 30,000 atrocity victims to some 38,000. He later told newsmen it was his "personal conviction that over 35,000 of these are dead." He explained that the higher figure included estimates of losses in the notorious death marches and prison camps which had not been included in the earlier U. S. Army report.

Allies Back Lodge

Lodge's denunciation of the bestial slayings was echoed in yesterday's debate by representatives of Britain, Turkey and Canada. All labeled them an affront against human rights.

The Soviet bloc's position in the debate was defined by Poland's Deputy Foreign Minister Marian Naszowski, who said the United States dragged the atrocity question before the U. N. as a propaganda maneuver designed to "wash off the stains of guilt" for Korean bombings by American planes and for waging germ warfare.

LEAVES TO ACCEPT PRIZE. Bound for Oslo, Norway to accept the 1953 Nobel Peace Prize, Gen. George C. Marshall waves from the deck of the Italian liner Andrea Doria in New York. The former U.S. secretary of state told newsmen that he looks on the award as a tribute to all the American people.

Ex-Governor Killed

Kim Sigler Among Plane Crash Dead

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP)—Kim Sigler, who rocketed to the Michigan governor's chair seven years ago after a sensational grand jury expose, plummeted to his death late yesterday in a fiery plane crash. Three companions died with him.

Sigler's own four-place plane, threading its way through a dense fog, snagged onto a guy wire supporting a 540-foot television tower. The impact sheared off one wing and sent the fuselage hurtling into a woods three quarters of a mile away, where it crashed and burned.

Presumed at Controls

The 59-year-old Republican ex-governor presumably was at the controls.

The other victims were Sigler's secretary, Mrs. Ruth Prentice, 41; her sister, Mrs. Virginia Schuyler, 28; and Mrs. Schuyler's husband Harold, 37, of Lansing.

The crash scene was near Augusta, in northeast Kalamazoo County.

Sigler and his party were returning from a combination business-pleasure trip to Louisiana.

It was believed that because of the fog Sigler might have been coming in for a landing at Kellogg Field, only three miles from the tower.

Successful Prosecutor

In the mid-1940s Sigler, as special prosecutor for a one - man state graft grand jury, was responsible for indictments against more than 100 legislators and lobbyists. Many of them went to prison. Bribe-taking to influence votes was exposed.

After a bitter feud over continuance of the grand jury, Sigler took a fling at politics in 1946.

By a thumping majority of 340,000 votes, he defeated Democratic incumbent Murray D. Van Wagoner.

But after one two-year term, Sigler, was unseated by present Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams by 164,000 votes in a surprising political nosedive. He returned to his law practice in western Michigan.

Dulles Retorts To Criticism By McCarthy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles, in an evident retort to Sen. McCarthy (R—Wis), said today President Eisenhower and he "do not propose to throw away" the assets of Allied cooperation "by blustering and domineering methods."

Dulles did not mention McCarthy by name but he said he was commenting on widely publicized criticism to the effect that the United States speaks in too kindly a manner to its Allies and has sent them "perfumed notes instead of using threats and intimidation to compel them to do our bidding."

McCarthy used the words "perfumed notes" in criticizing administration foreign policy in his nation-wide radio-TV address of Nov. 25.

In a news conference statement, Dulles said the administration rejected "arrogant" methods and the use of demands which the United States would turn down if such demands were made upon it.

He said it is bases shared with

Sees More Spy 'Fare'

Idaho Senator Hits Back At Critics of White Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Welker (R-Idaho) said today that as a result of the Harry Dexter White case the Democrats "will be eating 'warmed over spy' for a good time to come."

He aimed the remark at Stephen A. Mitchell, Democratic national chairman, and Clayton Fritchey, deputy chairman, who have been assailing Republican handling of disclosures about White's promotion in the Truman administration.

Promises More Exposes

"We'll have some more revelations for the American people," Welker told newsmen as he arrived to attend Senate internal security subcommittee hearings tomorrow at which a former associate of White is to be questioned.

Welker said Fritchey had made "the silliest statement I've heard since I've been in the Senate" in alleging Sunday that Atty. Gen. Brownell had reopened the White case to divert attention from a "serious situation within the Justice Department itself."

On an MBS radio broadcast last night, Fritchey accused Brownell of putting the FBI into politics in the White case while "pulling it out of crime busting."

Refers to Denver Charge

"It seems to me," he said, "that Brownell is interested in pulling the FBI into politics with one hand and—if two federal judges are right—pulling it out of crime busting, on the other hand."

Fritchey said he referred to (A) a Denver federal judge's criticism of the Justice Department for refusing to let the FBI help in a jury-tampering case, and (B) an 16 Hurt as 2 Erie Trains Collide at Paterson, N.J.

PATERSON, N. J. (AP)—At least 16 persons were hurt—none of them seriously — in the head-on crash last night of two Erie Railroad passenger trains that were moving at reduced speeds.

The fronts of the diesel locomotives powering the trains were damaged, but the passenger cars were not derailed and appeared undamaged.

The mishap occurred at 6:30 p. m. EST on an overpass about a mile east of the Patterson station.

Forced Labor During Time of War Opposed

Unions, Management In Accord; Flemming May Have To Decide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Union and management officials have agreed to oppose any form of conscription of labor in wartime but government agencies are reported still toying with the idea.

Details of the agreement of organized labor and management men were outlined today by AFL President George Meany in the AFL's monthly magazines, and were confirmed by a governmental source familiar with the situation.

Oppose Authority

Meany said representatives of the National Assn. of Manufacturers and U. S. Chamber of Commerce have agreed with the AFL, CIO and railroad labor organizations that, in case of all-out war, the government should not have authority to order workers to take particular jobs.

It was reported that Defense Department and selective service officials are not sure, however, that manpower requirements in certain industries can be satisfied in the event of war without some such power.

Flemming To Arbitrate

The matter is being thrashed out quietly. The labor-management committee's report, marked "restricted" and advising against any form of wartime labor conscription, has been filed with Defense Mobilization Director Arthur S. Flemming.

Churchill Leaving By Air Today for Bermuda Meeting

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill leaves by air tonight for the Big Three conference in Bermuda determined to press for quick acceptance of Russia's bid for an East-West meeting in Berlin.

Churchill, Foreign Secretary Eden and their retinue of advisers will make the flight in the same stratocruiser Canopus which last week carried Queen Elizabeth II across the Atlantic on the first leg of her Commonwealth tour.

French Premier Joseph Laniel and his party are scheduled to arrive on the Atlantic holiday island Thursday and President Eisenhower Friday.

Eden made it clear in the House of Commons yesterday that in spite of American doubts of Soviet sincerity, Britain wants to get Big Four talks underway as soon as reasonably possible.

It was believed Churchill and Eden would urge Laniel and Eisenhower to join in accepting Berlin as the site and proposing mid-January as the date.

Longshoremen Stop Work on N.Y. City Piers

Protest New Cleanup Law; Picket Lines Spread to Brooklyn

NEW YORK (AP)—Longshoremen refused to work along a 15 block pier area today in protest against the Bi-State Waterfront Commission law which went into effect to clean up the waterfront.

Pickets were at each pier in the area. Police identified them as men who had been refused working cards by the waterfront commission. Men who had received work cards and had been certified to work honored the picket lines.

Longshoremen were refusing to work in Brooklyn, too.

First Reaction to Law

This was the first reaction to the new law designed to rid the piers of criminal abuses.

First indication of the work stoppage came at one of the employment centers set up by the New York-New Jersey Waterfront Control Commission.

About 200 baggage handlers had been slated to be hired for work on the United States, due in at 9 a. m. EST. None, however, signed on.

Under the new law, which went into effect at midnight, extra dock workers must be signed on in the employment center, after first being licensed by the commission.

The midtown piers where most transatlantic luxury liners dock have been regarded as a stronghold of the Independent International Longshoremen's Assn. ousted last September from the American Federation of Labor because of racketeering.

Complicated by Dispute

The bi-state commission's task of taking over supervision of all harbor activities has been complicated by a jurisdictional dispute between the old ILA and a new AFL dock union.

The work stoppage was disclosed after Neil McQuade, hiring boss for the United States' pier, abruptly left the employment center a few minutes after he entered the place at 7:55 a. m.

Amazed by McQuade's failure to hire anyone, pier workers were

Charter Group Members Like Manager Form

Many Express Opinion This Type Would Be The Best for Marion

A discussion of the mayor-council and city manager types of government was held at the meeting of the City Charter Commission Monday night at the YMCA.

Most members expressed the opinion the city manager type was the best form of government for Marion, but agreed the mayor council plan had good points, too.

Members said Marion has had good government in the past, and any change recommended by the commission would be an effort to improve the caliber of service rendered the public.

Several advanced the opinion that the strongest point in favor of the city manager type was that a manager could be fired if council saw he was doing a poor job, whereas a mayor would remain in office until the following election.

Another point advanced in favor of the manager type was that a good city manager is a specialist trained to do his job effectively but a mayor is not required to have any special training.

The possibility of politics entering the operation of the city man

Strike Leaves New York City Without Papers

Herald Tribune Stops Printing in Sympathy With Other Big Dailies

NEW YORK (AP) — News-hungry New Yorkers were without a major city newspaper today as the Herald Tribune suspended publication in sympathy with the six big dailies closed down by a photo engravers' strike.

The shutdown of all the principal newspapers was the first in the city's publishing history.

Will Continue Negotiations

Representatives of the AFL Photo Engravers Union and of the publishers of the six struck newspapers scheduled resumption of negotiations today.

When negotiations were recessed last night, a federal mediator said there was no change in efforts to settle the dispute over wages and other issues. Union and publisher representatives had no comment on the course of the talks.

Photo engravers on the six newspapers walked out early Saturday, but the Herald Tribune was not struck because it has its photo engraving done by a commercial plant. The six dailies were closed down because members of other newspaper unions honored the picket lines of the 400 photo engravers. More than 20,000 employes were idled.

Suspends Publication

The Herald Tribune, which published a streamlined eight-page edition yesterday, announced last night it was suspending until further notice.

The newspaper's announcement, saying in effect that it would not let itself be used as an instrument to force a strike settlement on the other newspapers, read in part:

"We take this action because it is clear that the continued publication of the Herald Tribune is being used as an instrument to

Vernon Hensel, coach at the Morral School, was a guest. Norman C. Roettger, superintendent, told the group how the old school building had been arranged for high school purposes, and gave a general review of the building of the new elementary building and of the added conveniences in the new structure.

The board of directors met following the dinner. The club voted to pomote the sale of tickets for the House of David-Green Camp Co-Op Elevator basketball game on Dec. 12 in the new school gymnatorium. On the same card will be a game between the Pythian Drugs of Columbus and a team composed of coaches of Marion County basketball teams. H. D. Kempton was named chairman.

Miss Heady's attorney, Harold Hull of Maryville, said today Mrs. Heady would not invite anyone and that he did not know if Hall would.

Mrs. Heady is leaving all her clothing and other personal property to her aunt, Mrs. Nellie Baker. She also deeded her home to Mrs. Baker and gave her a life estate in her 320-acre farm near Clearmont, Mo.

Mother Files $150,000 Suit in Bucyrus Court

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS — A two-car collision which took three lives in northwestern Crawford County last Sept. 21 has resulted in a $150,000 action for money being filed in Common Pleas Court here by Mrs. Eleanor M. Swartz of Woodville, whose son, Walter A. 36, also of Woodville, was killed in the crash.

Named as defendant is Robert Pieracini, administrator of the estate of Ralph Pieracini, 60, of Carey, who died following the crash. Also killed was Pieracini's wife, Adeline, 60. In her petition, Mrs. Swartz states that her son, of whose estate she is administratrix, is survived by a widow and three small sons.

The petition charges that Pieracini failed to obey a stop sign at the intersections of State Routes 262 and 103. He also is charged with negligence for failing to yield the right of way, traveling at an excessive speed and failing to keep his car under control.

Texas, the nation's largest state, also has the most counties, 254. Georgia, with 159 counties, ranks second.

Koy gave some of the money to workmen around the job and said he hoped the rest would pay for the new garage.

Van Fleet Denies Governor Report

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A report last night that President Eisenhower had urged Gen. James A. Van Fleet to become the Republican candidate for governor of Florida next year brought a quick denial from Van Fleet.

The Miami Herald said the President "indicated he strongly favored the idea" of Van Fleet running for governor.

Van Fleet, reached at Jackson, Miss., where he was on a speaking tour, said the story was news to him and that he had not discussed the subject with the President.

WHEELING ,W. Va. (AP)—All four persons indicted in the $106,000 Sammons robbery—three men from Texas and a Wheeling woman—received prison sentences yesterday in Ohio County Intermediate Court.

Mrs. Mary Balderson, 31-year-old Wheeling housewife, was sentenced to one to 10 years in the State Prison for Women at Pence Springs. She had pleaded guilty to taking $600 from the home, where she was a part-time window cleaner.

Each of the Dallas, Tex., residents—Henry Ward, 43, Phil Anderson, 46, and Jimmy Fugitt, 34—was sentenced to serve a minimum of 10 years in the state penitentiary at Moundsville.

They received the prison terms impassively. All three pleaded guilty to armed robbery indictments Nov. 18.

Very Little Foreign News Read in U.S., Press Report Says

ZURICH, Switzerland, (AP—A poll of American newspaper readers shows that 40 per cent of them are unable to identify Georgi Malenkov as Soviet Russia's Premier, the International Press Institute disclosed last night.

The average American, said IPI reads "very little" of the 4½ columns of foreign news printed daily by the average American newspapers. "The level of his knowledge about important events abroad is low," the institute commented.

The summary was contained in a 266-page book called "The Flow of News," published by the IPI. An organization of editors in 32 countries, its study was financed by the Ford and Rockefeller foundations.

The reader poll was conducted for IPI last April and May by the American Institute for Public Opinion. Malenkov succeeded Joseph Stalin as Russian Premier March 6.

The survey found 79 per cent of the Americans interviewed didn't know NATO means the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

New Floor Care Ends Waxing

One of the most difficult jobs of housekeeping is to keep linoleum and asphalt tile floors waxed and gleaming. Now, thanks to Glaxo, it is no longer necessary to wax and scrub. All you do is apply Glaxo with a brush about twice a year. It maintains a high lustre, non slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run, besides saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor Glaxo is available at Uhler's—3rd Floor.

Brown, Jolly Join

Bucyrus 50-Year Club To Initiate Two Members

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS — This city's famed 50-Year Club, composed of Bucyrus residents who have followed the same occupation or profession here for at least a half century, will welcome two new members when it holds its 23rd annual meeting Thursday night in Good Hope Lutheran parish house.

The new members are Albert H. Brown, 79, a cabinet maker, and Ralph A. Jolly, 64, a wholesale confectioner and a partner in the R. A. Jolly Co.

Jolly, a lifelong resident here, is believed to be the youngest member the club has ever had. He began his career 50 years ago as an assistant in a confectionery here. He is vice president and a director of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Bucyrus. For many years the Jolly family operated Seccaium Park, located midway between Bucyrus and Galion.

Brown has lived here more than 50 years and was born on a farm near Bucyrus. He and Mrs. Brown recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. They have two daughters, Mrs. David H. Sears of Harpster, and Mrs. Donald K. Auck of Bucyrus, and two grandchildren. He works daily at the O. F. Kime Lumber Co.

The club, which was founded in December, 1931, by William A. Blicke, president of the Bucyrus City Bank, has had 54 members of whom 28 are living. Of the living members, 16 are still active and 12 are retired. Average age of the club's members is 77.5 years. The 12 retired members served an average of 59 years at their occupation while the 16 active members have been "on the job" an average of 55 years.

Guest speaker will be Dr. Tennyson Guyer of Findlay, known as "Ohio's Ambassador of Good Will." He is executive assistant and public relations director for the Cooper Tire and Rubber Co. in Findlay.

About 120, including 63 members of the Bucyrus Rotary Club, will be Mr. Blicke's guests at the banquet. Mr. Blicke, who, this month, is starting his 73rd year with the bank, organized the club shortly after he completed 50 years' service with the bank and each year since he has been host at the gathering.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche, who usually is a guest at the banquet, will be unable to attend this year because of illness. Among the prominent guests will be Dr. Arthur Flemming, director of the U. S. office of defense mobilization, Robert L. Moulton of Galion, chairman of the Ohio Public Utilities Commission, and Dr. Harry B. Taylor, pastor of the Church of the Covenant in Cleveland and last year's guest speaker.

Oldest club member is James R. Hopley, retired jobprinting shop proprietor and former newspaper publisher. He is 90. Next oldest is William F. Mader, 88, who was the nation's oldest fire chief, both in years of service and in age when he retired last July. He was fire chief 65 years.

Other retired members, their former occupations and ages, include: Fred A. Wise, 87, furniture merchant and funeral director; John Q. Shunk, 87, manufacturer; William H. Graetz, 86, pharmacist; Philip J. Seeger, 84, blacksmith; George F. Fisher, 82, hardware dealer; Louis Engelhard, 82, clothier; Joseph D. Wise, 80, furniture merchant and funeral director; Judge J. Walter Wright, 79, attorney; J. Fred Wurtemberger, 80, grocer, and Anthony J. Gubernath, 70, boilermaker.

Still active in their chosen professions or occupations are the following club members: Blicke, 87, bank president; Judge Charles F. Schaber, 80, Judge William J. Schwenck, 79, Judge James W. Miller, 75, Otho W. Kennedy, 75, all attorneys; Dr. Eric Zincke, 79, dentist; August L. Gerhart, 78, grocer; William H. Merkel, 76, corporation sales manager; Victor Nussbaum, 75, tailor; Dr. Fred W. Kehrer, 75, ear, eye, nose and throat specialist; Robert B. Picking, 74, manufacturer; Frank Rutter, 73, blacksmith; William Kranich, 73, painting and interior decorating contractor, Arthur F. Norton, 71, florist, Albert H. Brown, 79, cabinet maker, and Ralph A. Jolly, 64, wholesale confectioner.

Budget Level

At the present rate of spending, the federal government will reach a total of 71 billion dollars by next June 30 when its spending year closes.

This will be 3½ billion less than it had spent at the close of its preceding spending year last June 30.

Taxpayers should note this difference.

Barring unforeseen developments, such as the outbreak of another shooting war which would consume equipment and ammunition at an accelerated rate, the budget-makers of the Eisenhower administration will be able to claim a significant accomplishment.

They will have leveled off the federal budget with a little to spare. It has been more plainly evident each month since last January when the Eisenhower administration took office that this alone would represent a great victory in the budget battle.

Beginning in the spending year which ended June 30, 1949, expenditures of the federal government rose each year until they reached the peak of 74.6 billion in the spending year that ended last June 30.

This steady increase has been caused by huge totals for defense and related expenditures. In the spending year that ended in mid-1948, the defense total reached a postwar low of 11½ billion. It started to rise the next year and is still rising. It reached 44.6 billion last year—almost four times its 1948 total.

Net receipts have risen, too, but in nowhere near the same proportion. Last year they were slightly more than 65 billion, as against a postwar low point of 38.2 billion in 1949.

This is the Eisenhower administration's budget problem—how to offset the steady increase in defense spending as the result of commitments made during the Korean war and which must continue to be made as long as there is danger of sudden war.

There is no way to save corresponding sums of money inside the non-defense expenditures of the government. Interest on the federal debt alone now accounts for more than 6½ billion a year, and there are other fixed obligations, such as more than 4 billion a year for veterans' services and benefits.

Nor is there any way to increase net receipts, other than to make substantial increases in tax rates.

Neither the executive leadership of the administration nor its legislative supporters will propose anything so drastic as higher tax rates.

The budget will be an issue in the congressional campaigns of 1954. It will be charged that the Republican party has not balanced it and that this represents failure.

It has done what no one in close touch with the financial problem in Washington believed would be possible, however. It has leveled off the spending rate while the cost of national defense is still rising.

That does not represent failure.

An Aeon Later

G. Yates Cook, housing rehabilitation director of National Association of Home Builders, uses an expression about one kind of modern housing which couldn't be more descriptive.

He calls those rows of dreary two and three-story flats which so often turn into city slums "cliff dwellings" and compares them with their counterparts in the Indian ruins of New Mexico.

Mr. Cook, in other words, doesn't think housing is any better than it used to be just because it happens to have been built an aeon later. It's an interesting point of view.

Is the modern cave dweller any better off in his burrow than his counterpart in ancient times? And what about the three dwellers who live up high, the stilt-house dwellers and the ones who can fold their tents and steal away? When the archaeologists dig up the ruins of 20th century civilization and piece together the circumstances, will they be impressed favorably, or will they shake their heads and wonder how aboriginal Americans managed to stay alive?

Beyond the Horizon

With Eugene O'Neill's death comes a realization of change in the stage, that mirror which shows men how they would look if they were trained to see with the eyes of playwrights.

What O'Neill saw in the mirror is not likely to be seen there again for a long time. It had ceased to be of popular interest long before his death.

The modern stage is preoccupied with glimpses of superficiality, not the long, introspective scrutinies of the inner soul which fascinated O'Neill. It is because he was so masterful at revealing hidden shapes and pulsations that he became, if not the greatest, at least one of the greatest playwrights of the 20th century.

It never ceases to puzzle contemporaries of playwrights and other creative artists that these people who produce so little tangible value in their lifetimes should be made over and mourned so feelingly when they die. It is because what they create has timeless value, infinitely greater than tangible value.

Eugene O'Neill's reflections of life are as close to being perishable as anything produced in America during his lifetime.

Injustice to McCarthy

Ike Should Disavow Untruths About Senator

The American people were given on Thursday last by the Associated Press a dispatch quoting extensively from an article by a New York Times correspondent, accusing Sen. McCarthy of having "distorted" the facts in the case of John Paton Davies.

The senator during his television-radio speech two days before had said that Davies, while in the State Department under the last administration, recomemnded the use of some known Communist agents to be a part of the Central Intelligence Agency operations, and was nevertheless still a government official under the Eisenhower administration.

The New York Times writer, who said he was reflecting the views of unnamed "top White House staff members," attributed to those White House staff members the following point about the Davies case:

"He (McCarthy) distorted the John Paton Davies case, although he knew the facts in that case as well as did Undersecretary of State W. Bedell Smith, who gave them to him under oath."

IT SO HAPPENS that Smith never testified at any time on the Davies case before any committee of which the Wisconsin senator was a member, or at any time when he was present. Both Undersecretary Smith and Sen. McCarthy have confirmed this categorical statement of fact.

The N. Y. Times dispatch says that Senators McCarthy and McCarran had charged that Davies "recommended putting Communists in key spots in the Central Intelligence Agency, and Smith finally went before them and declassified some top secret information to set this charge straight."

The facts are that the only testimony on the Davies case given by Smith before the Senate Committee on Internal Security has never been "declassified" or released for publication, and Sen. McCarthy was not a member of that committee.

The N. Y. Times dispatch continues:

"He (Smith) told them (the committee) that a decision had been taken to use some Communists as counter - espionage agents and that Davies had been asked to recommend several men who might handle the job."

THIS STATEMENT is wholly untrue. Smith was not the head of Central Intelligence when the episode happened, and Adm. Hillenkoetter, who was the head of it, testified before the Senate Internal Security Committee that he had completely rejected the proposed plan after consulting with the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

There was never any "decision" to use the Communist agents, and Davies himself admitted in testimony before the Senate committee that the plan was entirely his own, and not that of any of his superiors in the State Department or of anyone in the Central Intelligence Agency.

The New York Times dispatch continues:

"While this information (concerning the use of some Communists as counter-espionage agents) still was classified as top secret, and Davies was not permitted to let it be known that the Central Intelligence Agency was using some Communists as counter-espionage agents, Davies was asked about this and said he knew nothing about it.

"Later Smith allowed Davies to discuss the espionage plan and he did so in McCarthy's presence."

NONE OF THE foregoing statements is accurate. Davies testified on Aug. 8 and Aug. 10, 1951, before Sen. McCarran and two members of his staff. Sen. McCarthy was not a member of the committee and was not present.

Davies talked at length to the committee about the plan he had proposed to the Central Intelligence Agency at a conference he had had with two CIA officials—Lyle Munson and Edward Hunter—on Nov. 16, 1949.

Both Munson and Hunter under oath contradicted Davies, and said they did not get any impression that the Communists were to be used as counter-espionage agents, but that the Communists were to prepare "materials" for the policy guidance of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Seven discrepancies between the testimony of the two CIA officials and Davies caused Sen. McCarran on Feb. 21, 1952, to request the Department of Justice to present the evidence to a grand jury for a perjury indictment against

THE DAVIES testimony of 1951, and some of the sworn statements of the CIA officials made at that time, were made public early this year by the Senate Internal Security Committee. The testimony of Adm. Hillenkoetter, corroborating in general the statements of Munson and Hunter, has never been made public.

When Gen. Smith—who previously had served as chief of staff to Gen. Eisenhower in Europe and then became ambassador to Moscow, where Davies was a member of the embassy staff—was up for confirmation as undersecretary of state, he testified publicly on Feb. 4, 1953, before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Several senators asked him about the Davies case. He stated that the episode had occurred before he took the directorship of the CIA, and that his impressions were gained from such records as were available, and that he had not talked with Davies.

He said the Davies proposal theoretically might have worked but that his predecessor, Adm. Hillenkoetter, became alarmed and rejected it.

SMITH TESTIFIED that he was unable "to assess the motive" of Davies in proposing the plan, but that George F. Kennan, under whom Davies was serving at the time in the State Department, had written a letter to the loyalty board saying he felt some responsibility for Davies' work, though Kennan "did not specifically underwrite the Davies recommendation."

Davies himself testified that the specific plan he advanced was not based on any direct instructions from anyone else.

Notwithstanding the friendly nature of Smith's testimony and the fact that the Loyalty Review Board of the Truman administration last January formally stated that it had not found any ground to declare Davies ineligible for government service on loyalty grounds, Sen. Jenner again wrote the Department of Justice on June 11, 1953, asking that the perjury indictment against Davies be pressed.

William P. Rogers, deputy attorney general, wrote Sen. Jenner on July 6, 1953, that the department was making a review of the case and had not reached any "final determination." The letters were made public last August.

THAT'S WHERE the matter rests today. It has not been clarified or settled, and Sen. McCarthy was right in saying that John Paton Davies is still in government service, despite the testimony rendered against him.

It is to be noted that the President's Loyalty Review board was never authorized to pass on any questions of "security," and in its letter to the State Department the board intimated that it questioned Davies' judgment.

Subsequently Davies, who had been serving as deputy high commissioner in Germany, was transferred by Secretary Dulles to the American embassy in Peru, where he now is charge d'affaires. At one time Davies was ordered home from China at the request of Ambassador Hurley because of the latter's charge that Davies was too friendly to the Communist cause in China.

There is talk of another security investigation by the State Department, which it is reported Davies himself may formally request in order to clear up the matter.

Meanwhile Sen. McCarthy stands wrongfully accused by "top White House staff members" who—though three days have elapsed since the attack attributed to them was broadcast to newspapers in every community—have not yet disvowed the several untruths which they allegedly inspired.

Diary Reveals Ickes' Misplaced Trust

By Raymond Moley

It is probable the historians and lovers of literary curiosities will ponder for a generation over the remarkable number of matters, great and small, that the late Harold Ickes confided to his "Secret Diary," the first massive volume of which has just been published.

A remarkable feature of this section of the Diary, which covers the first thousand days of the Roosevelt administration, is the meager attention that it gives to what was supposed to be the major Ickes job, secretary of the interior.

There is room for sniping at practically every member of the cabinet and most of the other people close to the President.

NOTHING is too small to notice even the vagaries of Ickes' well-stuffed eustachian tubes. But the major subject is his Public Works Administration and his long and losing battle with Harry Hopkins.

Believe it or not, Roosevelt, when he took the oath of office, was a believer in economical government. He steadfastly refused to approve throughout his 1932 campaign the suggestions by Alfred E. Smith, W. R. Hearst, and many others that there be a 5 billion dollars public works program.

He said many times in my hearing that such a suggestion was silly because there were not enough worthy projects to spend any such amount upon. So far as I could make out, he had never heard of John Maynard Keynes or of "compensatory spending."

AFTER THE inauguration it took many hassles, in which Tugwell, Sen. La Follette, and many others participated, to get an appropriation of 3.3 billion dollars.

This figure was pulled out of the air and, so far as I knew at the time, it represented a compromise between the Smith-Hearst 5 billion dollars and Roosevelt's conviction that there were no more than 1 billion in worthy and feasible projects.

Then, to see that the spending should go slowly, the President gave the direction of this money to the suspicious and then genuinely thrifty care of Ickes. It was doled out at a snail's pace.

MEANWHILE, Harry Hopkins had appeared on the scene, with responsibility for a measurably small relief program (FERA).

For a while Ickes and Hopkins seemed, according to the Diary, to get on perfectly.

Ickes was busy doling out money, not necessarily to create employment, but through financing municipal plants, to make war on his old enemies, the power companies.

When 1934 moved toward its end, a cloud arose in the Ickes sky. Hopkins, who loved to spend money for spending's sake, had begun to show how votes might be made to grow with the sowing of dollars.

The smashing congressional victory of that fall awakened the political instincts of the President to the ease with which Hopkins' reckless spending of lots of ready money would activiate machines in the great Northern cities.

AT THIS EPOCHAL moment there came to the President's eager and experimental attention the economic doctrine of Keynesian spending.

There were plenty of Keynesian addicts around—Marriner Eccles, Tugwell, and others.

"Wonderful," FDR must have thought, "I can wield an instrument of political spoils without equal in history and at the same time have an excuse for it all nicely packaged in respectable economic theory."

We were on the way to the reign of Hopkins and "tax, spend and elect," and Ickes was on the way to the doghouse.

Ickes never realized what had hapened. He denounced Hopkins in the Diary. He complained to his friends. He argued hours on end with the President. But all in vain.

The President never informed Ickes of what really was his motive. Over and over he would lay upon the tortured Ickes the function of flattery. But his heart belonged to Hopkins the spender.

GIs for Glamor

By TRUMAN TWILL

The bishop of Lewes over in England, a fellow named Geoffrey Ware, has been knocking glamor girls. Under the code of chivalry, that gives any of us goggling males a right to knock the bishop.

He says the type of female who lets herself be photographed in eye-popping costumes — his idea of a "glamor girl" — is adding nothing to the sum total of human happiness.

"We are never going to build up a sound society," he declares, "if we pander to the modern craving for something daring and sensational."

It ain't just modern, sir. It's timeless. And there's more to it than a craving for something daring and sensational. There's a craving for a brighter side to life than the one too frequently kept in focus by men and women who have turned drab and listless.

To do justice to the bishop of Lewes, all us defenders of glamor must come clean and admit we know why he knocks it. He is worrying about muddle-headed men who take a gander at Sister Slinky on the silver screen or in a still picture, then run out on Momma and come to grief in the flames of the flickering candles.

Or maybe Slinky flashes across the horizon in person and discombobulates the boys with high-voltage shock. This is the sort of thing that really complicates a bishop's task. But there's another side to it, there really is.

Most of us knight-errants happen to believe in our heart of hearts that we are married to women who could be just as spectacularly glamorous if they tried to be as the tinseled dollies who work at it professionally.

Some of us, moreover, are married to women who have been glamorous at or near the professional level at one time or another but have given it up as something relatively unimportant.

There finally comes a time in the development of consciousness when reasonable men and women learn that beauty and glamor and all their trappings are only skin-deep. When people reachh that point they can take all the glamor there is in their stride and enjoy it for what it's worth. Their estimate of its worth is mighty low.

As an observant playwright, James Barrue, wrote once: "Charm is a sort of bloom on a woman . . . if she has it she doesn't need to have anything else . . . and if she doesn't have it it doesn't matter what else she has."

Glamor is no substitute for charm, though it may be an adjunct. Instead of worry about the tendency of some members of the male persuasion to go chasing off in the wrong direction, it would be wiser for all dedicated souls who worry about such things to marvel at how many millions of men are immune to anything so shallow as glamor.

If the ladies they're devoted to want to wear something slinky once in a while, that's perfectly all right. Not that they need anything to add to their charm, but a little glamor in the right places can put sparkle into things that otherwise would be commonplace.

Any questions?

The Once Over

Good Samaritans

(In tribute to the American mailmen in their Thanksgiving Day calls to collect for the Muscular Dystrophy campaign.)

Mile by mile the mailmen walked
The crew that doesn't flinch—
That they might help to save a child
From dying inch by inch.
In town and city did they hike
In sunshine, cold or rain,
To help you say to some poor kid,
"My child, you'll walk again!"

A LOOK BACK AT THANKSGIVING

Man made a good try at reflecting the spirit of Thanksgiving in the year 1953, but compared with the picture from the colonial fathers it wasn't too convincing. There was little of the spirit of weary, long-suffering, stout-hearted folks grateful for the day's dawn and for the sun setting upon a household still intact, unwounded and in no immediate danger.

The Pilgrims sank to their knees and thanked Providence for the shelter of a one-room cabin, for a field not wasted by storm or blight and for a respite from savagery.

The 1953 American measured his benefits by the yardstick of money, success, comfort and a good table at a nightclub.

The Pilgrim fathers knelt in gratitude for a fowling-piece, dry powder, sustained courage and the fortitude of his family in hours of great ordeals.

Modern man was little slow Thursday getting to his knees in appreciation for a ranch house, a garage, a gleaming new auto and a 24-inch TV set. The absence of a complete plan for a winter vacation on a tropical beach can cramp his style.

The Pilgrim mother went all-out in thanksgiving for the return of her man unharmed from the wilderness and for no Indian raid in his absence.

Too many 1953 mothers checked their blessings with a thought of the mink coat, the invitation to dinner with the right people and the fact that daddy, in choosing the new super-eight, didn't get a model with the seat that could be lowered by an electric button.

The forefathers on Thanksgiving Day felt glad for a few days simple food, a let-up in the blizzard, a baby's cry in the cabin corner, a prospect of an early spring and the absence of Indian warwhoops and a flaming torch from the cabin roof.

The 1953 American (and we ain't pointing) put into his Thanksgiving calculations plenty of thought of whether the income tax bite wasn't too heavy, how long before a certain stock might be split two for one, whether he could afford a wing on the shore cottage next season, why his name doesn't get into the smart columns more often, why he had again failed to have a winning Irish sweepstakes ticket and how he couldn't afford a station-wagon with white-wall tires.

(He could work a good deal of ingratitude into a realization that the boss had raised his salary only TWICE this year.)

The colonists of Plymouth were happy that they hadn't lost their scalps. Modern man (yes, I'm talking about me, too) was something less than dramatic in his expressions of appreciation Thursday if he lacked a spare TV set for the upstairs den, hadn't been admitted to the select country club yet and suffered from that same old bunion on the big toe. Oh, Plymouth, oh New Amsterdam, and omigosh!

President Eisenhower has paid a visit to his farm at Gettysburg, not far from the battlefield. In the silence of the night he can catch the voice of Abraham Lincoln making his immortal address, we think, and what a contrast the words make compared with so many utterances to be heard these days!

Injustice in government has now reached the outrageous stage where a bureaucrat is being asked what his job is and what he is doing if anything.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Union representatives at strikebound North American Aviation Inc. have reduced their pay demands but the company has rejected the proposal.

E. D. Starkweather, director of industrial relations, said North American's offer of 8 to 20 cents an hour increase is final. This offer was made before the strike was called.

The CIO United Auto Workers originally demanded 26 cents an hour more, but yesterday cut this to 20 cents an hour for skilled workers and 10 cents for other employes.

John W. Livingston, UAW vice president and head of the union's negotiating committee, said the union also suggested elimination of a low pay classification, withdrawal of demands for a pension plan, reduction of severance pay demands, modification of union shop demands and revision of demands concerning seniority, insurance and arbitration.

Officials Nab Young Escapee Near Bucyrus

Police and Sheriff In Crawford County Cooperate in Capture

Special to The Star

GALION — A 19-year-old Ohio State Reformatory escapee from Mansfield was captured this morning at the edge of Bucyrus as a result of the combined efforts of Galion and Bucyrus police and the Crawford County sheriff's department.

Garry Gotschar, still wearing reformatory garb, was apprehended shortly before 1 a.m. today, two miles east of Bucyrus, near the Crawford County Home, after leading Galion policemen on a chase by car from Galion to Bucyrus and on foot across a snow-covered field.

Gotschar escaped about 6:45 p.m. Monday from the reformatory, where he was serving a sentence for auto larceny. He stole a car in Mansfield about 8 o'clock last night and a few minutes later ran it into a ditch as he attempted to turn around, Crawford County Sheriff Elwood Jacobs said.

He walked about a mile and a half to West Liberty, located north of Galion in Crawford County, where he stole a car parked in a garage there and drove it away. Neighbors who saw the car pull out of the driveway became suspicious, took the license number and notified the owner of the auto. The sheriff's department was called and in turn notified the Galion police department. The sheriff in the meantime checked the abandoned car, and found it to be stolen from Mansfield.

Police officers spotted the car which had been stolen from West Liberty at the intersection of U. S. Route 30-S and State Route 19 at the edge of Galion and gave chase down Route 19 to Bucyrus. The Galion officers radioed Bucyrus police who set up a road block about two miles from the city limits, where the escapee stopped the car, jumped out and ran into a field. Galion police apprehended him a few minutes later. He was turned over to the sheriff and was being held in Crawford County jail today.

MRS. RUSSELL E. REICHARDT

A ballerina length gown of satin and tulle was worn by Miss Doris Winifred Hazen when she became the bride Nov. 1 of Russell Eugene Reichardt. The fitted bodice of satin had an off-the-shoulder neckline and was accented with long sleeves which ended in points over the hands. The bouffant skirt, worn over a hoop, was of tulle with satin inserts. Her fingertip length veil of imported French illusion was caught to a cap of satin and lace, adorned with pearls. Her jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom, and she carried a small bouquet of white pompons with white satin streamers tied with strands of ivy.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville LeRoy Hazen of 12 Eckley Dr., and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arliss Reichardt of 467 Blaine Ave.

The wedding took place in St. Paul's Episcopal Church with the rector, Rev. Frederick Leech, officiating for the 3:30 o'clock ceremony.

Preceding the ceremony, a program of nuptial music was presented by Harold Denzer Jr., organist, and the Marion Serenaders. Arrangements of white pompons were held in the gold vases on the altar, and lighted candles were in candelabra. The family pows were marked with white satin bows.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Juanita Cogan. Her gown of coral rice paper taffeta was styled with a pleated formal bodice and a bouffant ballerina length skirt worn over crinoline. The gown was topped with a matching stole. Her headdress was a champagne colored velvet band in a leaf arrangement with a nose veil, and her small bouquet was of pompons in a similar color.

Leslie Reichardt of Rome, N.Y., brother of the bridegroom, served as best man, and ushers were Thomas Hazen and Frederick Hazen, brothers of the bride, Donald Fitton Jr. of Hamilton, and William Hunt of Springfield, fraternity brothers of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Marion Country Club. A four-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom and surrounded with greenery, centered the table. An arrangement of pompons completed the decorations. Serving were Mrs. Roy Mash Jr. and Mrs. Richard Kemmerly of Marion, Miss Barbara Swan of Toledo, and Mrs. Richard Davey of Findlay.

When the couple left on a wedding trip through the southern states, Mrs. Reichardt was wearing a gray wool sheath dress and matching jacket. At present, they are residing with the bridegroom's parents until completion of their new home north of Marion.

Mrs. Reichardt was graduated from Harding High School and is employed as a secretary at the Jay H. Maish Co. Mr. Reichardt, also a graduate of Harding High School and of Ohio University, is associated with the Alloy Cast Steel Co.

At the rehearsal party held Oct. 31 at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Toucheff, 304 W. Church St. the couple presented gifts to their attendants.

Out-of-town guests were from Daytona Beach, Fla., Rome, N.Y., Cleveland, Norwalk, Toledo, Findlay, Hamilton, Springfield, Columbus Grove, Ashley and Amherst.

Piltdown Man

By George Sokolsky

The archeologists, anthropologists and other specialists have long labored to discover the origin of man, avoiding, of course, the hypothesis that he was created by God in His image.

SOKOLSKY

These scientific folk have dug in the debris of the past for skulls and bones and stones and potteries, hoping eventually to come upon the first ancestor of us all.

They have found some bones in Heidelberg in Germany, in Java, in the south of France, in the vicinity of Peking in China, and in Piltdown in Sussex, England.

OUT OF THESE bones, they reconstructed frightening caricatures of manhood to which they gave various names, such as Pithecanthropus Erectus and Cro-Magnards, etc., all of which at school we had to memorize and believe, just as the theological students in the Middle Ages were required to know the details of the lives of angels.

No skeptic dared to raise even an eyebrow because science is infallible and each scientist stands above the normal errors of man until another scientist proves that the contrary of any hypothesis can be as correct as the original.

Thus, we poor mortals, knowing only the facts of life, can never tell whether Einstein's correction of Newton is perfection itself until someone in this intellectual elite corrects Einstein, which may or may not happen while we are alive, for such genius does not often beset the human race.

AT ANY RATE, the Piltdown Man, of whose existence I was required to believe nearly 40 years ago, is no more.

He has been undone by chemistry, which wore away his patina and proved him to be a fraud perpetrated by a humorist, who while unknown has achieved immortality.

Of Piltdown, that popularizer of science and history, H. G. Wells, wrote:

"The bony remains discovered at Piltdown in Sussex display a creature still ascending only very gradually from the sub-human.

"The first scraps of this skull were found in an excavation for road gravel in Sussex. Bit by bit other fragments of this skull were hunted out from the quarry heaps until most of it could be pieced together.

"It is a thick skull, thicker than that of any living race of men, and it has a brain capacity intermediate between that of Pithecanthropus and man. This creature has been named Eoanthropus, the dawn man. . .

"There was moreover a jaw-bone among these scattered remains, which was at first assumed naturally enough to belong to Eoanthropus, but which it was afterwards suggested was probably that of a chimpanzee.

"It is extraordinarily like that of a chimpanzee, but Dr. Keith, one of the greatest authorities in these questions, assigns it, after an exhaustive analysis in his "Antiquity of Man" 1915, to the skull with which it is found.

"It is, as a jaw-bone, far less human in character than the jaw of the much more ancient Homo Heidelbergensis, but the teeth are in some respects more like those of living men."

WELL, IT APPARENTLY was not so. It is now assumed that some fellow, with artistry and skill, pasted a lot of odds and ends together and did a job on the scientist.

Now, we who know nothing—not having PhD's — ought not to badger the scientific elite, because one error does not prove that they are all wrong.

We should recognize their sincerity in believing what they see even if the thing was put there for them to see.

My complaint is that they ridicule those who believe what we do not see or hear or smell or touch because some concepts are not measurable by instruments or by knowledge but only by faith.

THE SCIENTISTS reject our faith but insist upon their own as infallible.

They really do not know for a fact that the Piltdown gravel pit is 100,000 years old, although they are willing to believe that, just as they believed, up to this week, that the Piltdown Man was somewhere between 50,000 and 100,000 years old.

He turns out to have been manufactured like a toy in one of Woolworth's stores but with greater competence.

Now that the Piltdown sub-man is no longer an ancestor, I think I shall return to the theologians, who, if they cannot prove their case by a microscope, give me the comfort of a power outside myself, whose moral law is, at any rate, a guide to decent living.

Strike Leader Attacks Move On New Union

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A spokesman for the CIO-United Auto Workers Union says a group trying to replace it as bargaining unit at the Columbus North American Aviation, Inc., plant is "a company union designed to stall negotiations."

Frank Wallick, the spokesman, termed the group a "phone booth organization" trying to hamper arbitration between union strikers and the jet plane plant.

"I think it will die out," he said yesterday. "Nobody has identified himself with it. It probably started out in a phone booth and no bona-fide labor man seems to be connected with it."

A spokesman for the new group said yesterday a committee is studying plans to oust the CIO union.

He asked his name be withheld in fear of retaliation but said his committee might place a petition before the National Labor Relations Board within the next few days.

He said the new union would be "independent" and "democratic."

The spokesman said the movement to oust the CIO union is a "spontaneous one" and not the plan of any individual or group. Efforts to establish a new union will continue regardless of the outcome of present negotiations between the UAW and North American, he continued.

The petition to the NLRB is now short of the 30 per cent required for "one type of action," he said, but there are enough signatures to start action with the NLRB.

Some 12,500 production workers at the plant were called out Oct. 23 by the present union over a wage dispute. Two other North American plants in California also are strike-bound.

Columbus police reported continuing violence they said may be connected with the strike. An explosion of a "home made bomb or a stick of dynamite" ripped a hole in the rear of a garage of a North American employe yesterday. Ten minutes later, they said, another blast caused some $200 damage to the car of another plant employe who had returned to work.

Sovieteer's Pattern

By Victor Riesel

You can't locate a sovieteer in this government without a pattern of his movements—so let me cut one for you.

RIESEL

First, it must be understood that they always move in complex intellectual fields which bore or frighten off most others.

Then it should be understood that they concentrate on controlling the economic heart of the nation — food, money and unions. Mostly unions.

The first successful Communist government operative was Harold Ware, son of a notorious Communist woman torch bearer, Mother Bloor. Harold was an agricultural genius and a devout Stanlinist.

RETURNING from teaching the Russians how to put their massive farms into production, he worked his way into our own Agricultural Adjustment Administration during the depresion when we needed to know swiftly how to rehabilitate our own farms and inexpensively feed our hungry, jobless people.

Then Ware launched the first really effective Communist cell — Alger Hiss, Nathan Witt and others.

Next he drew "The Infiltrators" into the government. They became experts. But Ware was killed in an auto accident

However, the experts moved on —consolidating their civil service positions in government. Then they could seep through all strategic government agencies.

When the sovieteers found a sensitive spot, they called on a whole cadre of young college professors.

These young educators had been standing by in big and little universities, teaching labor and economics, working for the lowest salaries which other erudite men would not touch. But they qualified as "experts."

THEN THEY MOVED into the Railway Retirement Board, the Social Security Board, the National Labor Relations Board, all the finance agencies, and into many powerful union spots.

Gradually the leftists cornered the market on "economic brains" in the government.

Every time an "expert" was needed, Harry Dexter White, or Gregory Silvermaster or others would call on this cadre.

They had their Civil Service standing. All they needed were transfers to the right department, where a comrade was working.

Thus the pro-Communist became an army of quack statisticians.

They had the mumbo-jumbo knowledge in these fields, just as the pro-Soviet group in the State Department had a monopoly on Asiatic affairs.

-:-

WHENEVER A MEMO was needed on the "economic stuff," the government hierarchy turned to these people.

Then, when the Office of Strategic Services, the Office of War Information and the Allied Military Governments wanted other experts, "The Infiltrators" came forth with names — and virtually all of them had at one time been inside labor, where we tried futilely to fight them.

Then the Sovieteers moved into the post-war international organizations—placed there again by "The Infiltrators." Thus they were able, in turn, to recommend special advisers to other governments and sit in the highest councils — where they can be found today trying to kill those governments.

But not for long. Led by the U.S., governments across the free world are now cracking down on spy rings. Finland, France, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, Italy, England and Canada are pooling their information to expose the crowd which grew out of Harold Ware's little cell.

WITHIN A FEW days, the anti-Communist labor leaders will unloose blasts at FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover. Taking the lead against the G-man will be Emil Rieve, hard-hitting chief of the CIO's Textile Workers Union.

He will charge that Hoover has permitted the FBI to be used politically by the party in power — which, says Rieve, can turn it into a European-style secret police agency.

This criticism will undoubtedly be the signal for a nationwide campaign against the FBI director.

The Communist issue will whirlwind a controversy around an already controversial union, which has hit a Southwestern city with a John Lewis type of blitz unionizing of virtually everything in town.

The union is District 65 of the Distributive, Processing and Office Workers Union, which has not yet been officially accepted by the CIO, but which had delegates observing the CIO Cleveland parley.

This union — which I have in the past feuded with because of its left wing affiliations — whose leaders say they've broken with the pro-Soviet crowd, has moved its organizers into Port Arthur, Texas.

At one time recently it picketed some 52 businesses — using part of the $100,000 fund allocated out of its 11 million dollar treasury to get a toe-hold in that oil city.

It is attempting to unionize not only department stores, but drive-ins, jewelry stores, restaurants, furniture establishments, five and dime emporiums and hotels.

Thus it cuts across the jurisdiction of other unions in an effort to unionize the city where the CIO Oil Workers have strength.

The union's opponents are charging that it is seeking to "capture Port Arthur" because the city is an oil center and vital port. Tempers are high. Keep your eyes on Texas.

If the union is successful, it will set a pattern for a score of organizing drives in key Southern cities.

ager form was one of the main objections. It was pointed out by several members that other cities have failed to have efficient city managers because the manager was controlled by political bosses who threatened to have him fired for failing to follow their orders.

No System Perfect

Members agreed no system of government now in existence was perfect, and it is the job of the commission to study the different types and choose the best one which would meet the needs of Marion.

It was also pointed out that blame for inefficient government could be laid directly in the laps of members of council under the city manager form. Council members would be responsible for the choosing of the manager and for the passing of laws. If they were not administered properly, it would be the duty of council to hire a new manager.

Failure to do so would bring the blame on council. Under the mayor type, though, council could blame the mayor for poor administration; but the mayor could turn around and blame council for failing to pass proper laws, with no direct responsibility placed in anyone's hands.

Before beginning the discussion, the commission decided to adjourn for the Christmas holidays after the meeting of Dec. 14, and resume meetings on Jan. 4.

Seated, left to right, are: C. J. Farcasin of Cincinnati, Robert F. Allen of Richwood, Mrs. A. B. Cohen of Cincinnati, Dr. Kenneth W. Keever of Magnetic Springs and Donald J. Hoskins of Columbus.

The $250,000 will be needed to remodel the former Park Hotel in Magnetic Springs into a polio rehabilitation center similar to the Georgia Warm Springs Foundatiotn. Patients from Ohio and two or three neighboring states will be served by the center which will be under the direction of Dr. Keever.

The home economics departments of Ohio's Granges are among the groups working to raise funds for the center.

Churchill, 79, Master of Art of Living

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — All who want to live into their 80th year should take a few tips from Winston Churchill.

He is the best known artist of liivng in our time. Why? It can be put into one word—gusto.

"All babies look like me," he quipped once. And he has retained the qualities that mark all healthy children — imagination, curiosity, enthusiasm, and the desire to keep on growing up.

Churchill was born with a silver spoon in his mouth, saw it change to brass, and by his own efforts turned it into gold.

The human race may number many in its long history who outlived him, but none who crowded so many hours with so much pure zest, none who had a greater appetite for living. American football brags about its 60-minute player, but in the tremendous battlefield of life Churchill has seen nearly 60 years of continuous action—and at 79 is still going at a gallop.

How has he been able to do it? His own words and a study of his career give the answer. He has been able to take everything in stride.

Most men are afraid of death, defeat and responsibility. Churchill has never been afraid to be greatly right—or of being greatly wrong. He has never run from death or hesitated to outface fear. He has undertaken mighty responsibilities, not as irksome duties, but as welcome adventures.

"Power, for the sake of lording it over fellow creatures or adding to personal pomp, is rightly judged base," he wrote. "But power in a national crisis, when a man believes he knows what orders should be given, is a blessing."

Churchill has never lost faith in himself, in victory or defeat. He never took his goals too lightly or himself too seriously. He has never lost his sense of humor.

"If Hitler invaded hell," he said once, "I would make at least a favorable reference to the devil in the House of Commons."

Churchill would have been completely at home in any age—from the dawn of the caveman to the dawn of the next century, which he is currently trying to design. Perhaps the nearest men America has produced like him were Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, although neither went at quite his pace.

"This world is a fen," said Churchill, and although his last big hope is to turn it into a peaceful garden, he loved the wars along the way almost as much as the roses.

He is an actor, a painter, an orator, a statesman, philosopher, warrior, and literary genius. He wrote fine history, and he made fine history—with both his words and his deeds.

His restless mind plumbed all pleasures of body and spirit, questioned all creeds, yet was unashamed to pray for succor to a God whose ways he couldn't understand.

"The idea idea that nothing is true except what we comprehend is silly," he said, in summing up his youthful religious doubt.

Churchill has played and worked with equal fervor all his life, and yet is a stout defender of the afternoon nap.

"The rest and the spell of sleep in the middle of the day refresh the human frame far more than a long night," he wrote "We were not made by nature to work, or even to play, from 8 o'clock in the morning till midnight. We throw a strain upon our system which is unfair and improvident. For every purpose of business or pleasure, mental or physical, we ought to break our days and our marches into two."

So if you want to live a rich full life like Churchill's all you have to do is savor both the sour and sweet of this world, don't be afraid, enjoy your work as much as you play—and get that afternoon nap.

Nothing else to it. Except ability.

Two Ohio Women Scheduled To Be Executed on Jan. 15

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two women in death row at the Ohio Reformatory for Women at Marysville are slated to be electrocuted the same day—Jan. 15.

The First District Court of Appeals set the date yesterday for Mrs. Betty Butler, 24, of Cincinnati, convicted of first degree murder of Mrs. Evelyn Clark, 22. Her attorneys said they would appeal to the Ohio Supreme Court.

The court usually postpones an electrocution until all appeals have been completed.

Mrs. Dovie Dean, of Batavia, convicted for the arsenic slaying of her 69-year-old husband, Hawkins, will go to the chair Jan. 15, unless she receives a further extension from Gov. Frank J. Lausche. The Supreme Court declined to review her case.

Her electrocution had been set for Nov. 6, but the governor rescheduled it so he could study the case personally.

Only one woman—Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn of Cincinnati—has been electrocuted by the State of Ohio.

McCarthy Denies Split in GOP Ranks

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) denied emphatically last night that his recent nationwide radio and television talk indicated a split in the Republican party, you can't have a follow-the-leader party," he said. "All members should be able to express their own opinions."

A reporter asked McCarthy if he was "trying to wrest the GOP leadership from the President." The senator replied:

"Ever since I have been engaged in this fight to expose communism certain newspaper editors and columnists have been very active in shouting and screaming that I am trying to take over the power of the Republican party.

"I am not concerned with what they say. If I wasted time worrying about that, I would not have time to worry about anything else."

Holstein Club Names Officers

Ferdinand Lawrence Is Elected President

Ferdinand Lawrence was elected president of the Marion County Holstein Club at the group's final meeting of the year Monday night in the county extension office. Lawrence succeeds Z. C. Kline.

Other officers elected were Gomer Johnson, vice president Loren Fulton, secretary-treasurer; and Harold Patrick, news reporter.

Kline gave a report of the state Holstein Club at the groups' final meeting held at Wooster last week and explained the projects of the different clubs throughout the state. Richard Brooks presented a report of a dairy meeting he attended last summer in Texas.

Formation of a steer-calf club was discussed and plans for a show and sale next year and the heifer chain program for county FFA and 4-H members were made. The group will meet again in January.

10 Additional Witnesses Called in Mansfield Case

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Ten more witnesses, including police and fire officials, neighbors and employes of the Sternbaum Supermarket, are expected to be called before a special session of the Richland County grand jury today.

The grand jury is hearing testimony in the death of Mrs. Leah Sternbaum whose body was found after a fire in the supermarket last December. Her husband, Max, told police the building was fired by robbers.

Cleveland Heights School Authorities Scolded by Judge

CLEVELAND (AP) — A Juvenile Court judge gave a verbal paddling yesterday to school authorities for allowing seven boys to remain in high school after they had attacked a teacher's home with bricks, eggs and firecrackers.

Judge Harry L. Eastman delivered a six-page opinion in the case resulting from the $630 vandalism last October at the home of Frank J. Lorz, an English teacher at Cleveland Heights High School.

"The court is somewhat puzzled about the timidity that permitted these boys to remain in school," the judge said. "It would seem that this right has been forfeited and that it should be so recognized by the school officials if they have any intention of retaining the respect of the student body."

He ordered the seven boys, all 16 and 17 and from good homes, locked up in the detention home immediately.

Their parents were given a week to decide whether they wished to send them to military or similar disciplinary schools or have the state take them to its corrective school at Lancaster.

In the case of a private school, they will have to remain until June 1954. The term at the state school would be indeterminate.

If the custodian Indian command follows its old plan, 10 newsmen from each side will be allowed in the Allied POWs camp at one time.

Bentley

was printing occupation marks for Germany. My Soviet superior in New York—his code name was Bill—instructed me to order Nathan Gregory Silvermaster to produce copies of this occupation currency.

I passed the instructions on to Silvermaster and within short order William Ludwig Ullman, a U. S. Army Air Forces major stationed at the Pentagon, turned up with two or three samples of the currency, wrapped in newspaper. Ullman told me he had gotten the samples from Harry Dexter White, the Treasury official, and that I could only have a loan of them because they had to go back.

SEVERAL DAYS LATER, the marks were given back to me by my Soviet contacts with the observation that the samples were inadequate. They could not be successfully photographed or copied. What was needed were the actual printing plates themselves.

White was accordingly instructed to convince the Treasury that the plates must be officially released to the Russians. Ulimately, this was done and it was reported that millions of occupation marks were printed by the Russians, flooding Germany, and that many good U. S. dollars were used to redeem them. (Editor's note: it is estimated in reliable quarters that 250,000,000 in U. S. dollars was used to redeem part of this Russian issue of occupation marks.)

For a long period after joining the Communist party in 1935, I was an insignificant member of the "semi-open" organization, performing routine tasks of organizing and propagandizing. But my career as a Communist took a startling turn in 1938 when I was ordered to henceforth take my orders from "Timmy."

"TIMMY," AS IT turned out, was the code name of Jacob Golos, one of the three men on the feared and powerful central control commission of the American Communist party, a member of the Russian secret police, and one of the first "contacts" for the Washington espionage agents.

Golos was something more. He was the only man with whom I ever fell deeply in love and who loved me as dearly. Had our lives not been twisted and tortured by the dictates of the Communist apparatus, we surely could have had a few happy years in a normal husband-wife relationship before his death of a heart attack on Thanksgiving Day, 1943.

I was young, impressionable, fervent in my belief that the Communist movement carried the seeds of regeneration for an evil world. And in supreme faith and trust and love, I willingly let Jacob Golos shape my life.

When shortly after meeting him, he told me, "You are not an ordinary Communist anymore; you are a member of the underground." I was puzzled but happy. It was obvious he intended this as a compliment.

MY FIRST REAL undercover courier work came in the latter part of 1939, when I was put in contact with Abe Brothman, a chemical engineer, who was sent to jail for seven years for obstructing justice in the atom spy case. At the time, Brothman was running a small chemical equipment firm and had access to blueprints for kettles, which are large vats for chemicals.

The Russians wanted these blueprints for it was known the kettles were going into large industrial firms. Brothman obeyed his instructions to the letter and studiously turned over the blueprints to me for copying or else gave me extra copies of the original if any were available.

I remember that the Russians were extremely anxious to get the blueprints of the kettle that was to be installed in the Edgewater arsenal. However, before this mission could be accomplished, Brothman was turned over to another contact and I had no way of knowing whether the blueprint was ever delivered.

AS USUAL, an elaborate ritual was prepared for Brothman's transfer to the new contact. It was a complicated affair—but it insured against any false step or against one agent needlessly learning the identity of another. I gave the license number and description of Brothman's car to Golos, who gave it to his own Soviet contact. This official arranged for the number and description to be handed over to Brothman's new contact, together with an appointed time and place to meet.

Brothman was to sit in his car at the designated spot. His new contact would get into the front seat and say that he brought regards from Helen. Helen was one of several code names I used. With the contact thus established, the pair were to drive away.

Half Dollars Sell for $2 in Cancer Benefit

The Marion County Bank has been supplied with Carver-Washington Commemorative Half Dollars to participate in a drive wherein one-half of the premium from all future sales of the half dollars will be turned over to the American Cancer Society.

Recently the trustees of the Booker T. Washington Birthplace Memorial and the George Washington Carver National Monument Foundation passed a resolution to this effect.

Popular price of the half dollars to the public is $2 each.

Sidney J. Phillips, president of the Memorials to Dr. Carver, the outstanding Negro scientist, and Booker T. Washington, the noted Negro educator, has announced that the central theme for disposing of the half dollars at this time is "Give a Christmas Gift With a Mission."

There is a total of 3 million of the half dollars to be sold, which will give $2,250,000 to aid in cancer research. To accomplish the purpose, W. K. Tobin, cashier of the Marion County Bank, has estimated that only two out of every 100 persons in this area need to purchase the half dollars to assure the success of the program.

tive service views are being aired before a separate group made up of representatives of interested government agencies. Flemming is expected ultimately to reconcile any conflicts. The interagency group has not yet reported to Flemming, however.

AFL President Meany, in reporting the labor-management agreement in the AFL's American Federationist, says:

"On this issue, committee members had before them the clear evidence developed during World War II. In the conflict with the totalitarian states, it was clearly shown that free labor can easily outproduce compulsory labor.

"The individual working on a job he has freely chosen is a far more productive worker than the individual who is forced to accept a particular job under government direction."

Meany said the labor-management group felt, however, that neither the worker nor the employer, in all-out war, could be left "to do exactly as he wishes."

obstruct normal collective bargaining.

"In this connection a responsible union official involved in the current strike was quoted as saying, if the Herald Tribune is publishing and the Times is closed, it won't stay closed long.

"This newspaper . . . feels that the other publishers have done everything possible to reach a fair agreement, including two offers to submit the issues to an impartial arbitrator or board of arbitrators . . .

Employes to Stand By

"All members of the Herald Tribune organization are expected to report at their usual hours and to handle their regular work so that it will be possible to resume publication without delay."

The Herald Tribune did not identify the union official it quoted. However, the New York Times on Saturday attributed the same quote to Denis M. Burke, president of striking Local 1 of the AFL International Photo Engravers Union.

The Times and Tribune are close competitors in the morning newspaper field.

Today's negotiation schedule, coupled with the union's statement that any strike settlement would be subject to ratification at a membership meeting, made it appear impossible that the World-Telegram & The Sun, Journal-American and Post could publish afternoon newspapers today.

Could Resume Wednesday

The earliest possible resumption appeared to lie in the morning field, where the struck Times, Daily News and Daily Mirror publish along with the Herald Tribune.

The photo engravers, who make the metal plates from which newspaper pictures and illustrations are reproduced, struck in support of their demand for a package increase of $15 a week including wages, pensions and welfare benefits. The publishers, represented by the Publishers Assn. of New York City, offered a $3.75-a-week package. Current wages are $120 a week for day work and $131 for night work.

Ohio Animals Win Honors in Stock Judging

International Exhibit To End With Selection Of Grand Champion

CHICAGO (AP)—The 54th annual International Livestock Exposition reached its climax today with judges set to select the grand champion steer of North America.

Hopes of America's farm boys and girls to win this coveted title rested principally on "Little Stuff," an Aberdeen-Angus owned by Carlyle Greathouse, 18, of Hindsboro, Ill.

Little Stuff came to the fore yesterday when the junior champion steer, "Blackie," an Aberdeen Angus owned by 19-year-old Richard E. Carey of Mineral Point, Wis., was disqualified on the ground the animal was over age for the junior yearling class in which it had been entered.

Winners yesterday included these Ohioans:

Upright Leader, owned by the Landen Farms, Foster, judged reserve grand champion in the breeding polled shorthorn class.

Champion Hereford breeding bull—Hillcrest Larry R 76th, owned by C. A. Smith of Chester, Va.; reserve champion, Portage Mixer 23rd, owned by Portage Farms, Woodville.

Champion pen of fat Chester white barrows—Oklahoma A&M College, Stillwater; Ohio State University, reserve champion.

appeal to Brownell, apparently unanswered, from a federal judge in St. Louis for more help from the Justice Department in a grand jury investigation of labor union racketeering.

Welker also took a verbal swing at Mitchell for having said two weeks ago that "I don't think the people will eat warmed over spy."

The senator said: "It is my prediction that Brother Mitchell will be eating 'warmed over spy' for a good time to come."

Opposes FBI in Politics

Fritchey said last night he thinks FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover was distressed by being brought in as a probe witness, and he continued:

"The Democrats never once got into partisan politics on Nov. 17 before the Jenner committee. We Democrats regret it and hope the FBI can be pulled back out of politics."

Fritchey called upon Brownell to explain why the Justice Department had not ordered the FBI to help Colorado's U. S. Dist. Atty. Charles Vigil conduct an investigation of jury tampering. Vigil, with the help of the Internal Revenue Service, won convictions against two men.

At about the same time, he was replaced by a Republican. Fritchey conceded last night the replacement may not have been connected with the case. Sen. Millikin (R-Colo) said the change had been in the works for some time. A Justice Department spokesman said it was part of a campaign to replace Truman administration holdovers.

Claims Inconsistent Brownell

Fritchey also said it was "not consistent with the crusading promises" of Brownell to fail to heed a call for help in an investigation of racketeering in St. Louis. He suggested that the Senate Judiciary Committee might want to look into what he termed an unanswered call for "more help and more support" from Federal Judge George H. Moore.

The Judiciary Committee has announced plans for hearings, starting Dec. 12, on the Denver jury-tampering case.

Vigil said at Denver last night he first called Washington on Sept. 20, was unable to get Brownell or his top assistants and talked with an aide to Warren Olney, assistant attorney general. The aide said he would not authorize FBI help, Vigil said, so he sent a teletype request to Washington the following day.

Says Request Denied

"A few hours after the Teletype was sent," Vigil said in an interview, "this assistant to Olney—the same man I had talked with the day before—informed me that in spite of my frequent requests for (FBI) help, I would not get it.

"I just let the matter drop. After all, I was simply an underling."

The internal security subcommittee on which Welker serves has scheduled public questioning tomorrow of William Ludwig Ullmann, a former aide to White. Ullmann, testifying before the Senate investigations subcommittee in another recent inquiry, refused to answer questions about alleged Communist spy activities. He said the answers might tend to incriminate him.

Will Decide on Russia

Conference in Bermuda May Decide Big 4 Parley

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Use a magnifying glass to examine the fine print in the exchange of notes between the Big Four—the United States, Britain, France and Russia—on a foreign ministers meeting.

Then, after translating the diplomatic talk, you find this result: the West didn't get all it wanted; neither did Russia. Both sides yielded something.

Summed up and simplified, this is what they said, demanded, won, and surrendered:

The West—In inviting Russia to a Big Four foreign ministers talk, the West laid down strict conditions: (1) firm arrangements for free elections in all Germany, opening the way for a free all-German, unified government and later, perhaps, a German peace treaty and (2) Western-Russian agreement on an Austrian peace treaty.

Russia—Condemning the West for having decided beforehand what must be discussed, Russia insisted (1) first there must be a Big Five conference, which would include Red China, on general world tensions and (2) only after that could there be a Big Four meeting, without China, on Germany.

In the end the West became less precise on what the Russians would have to discuss on Germany and Austria, although insisting they must be discussed first, and refused to let Red China sit in with the Big Four on that problem.

And in the end Russia agreed to meet first with the West, although declaring that at that first meeting it would talk about a second meeting to include China.

Next question: Will the meeting between Russia and the West be held at all? Or will there be more note exchanging? The answer may not come for some days.

When Russia's latest note arrived Nov. 26, agreeing to let Red China wait for another conference, the State Department's first reaction, which has been its reaction to previous Russian notes, was: "Disappointing."

Almost at the same moment Britain's Foreign Minister Anthony Eden was talking confidently of a meeting now between the West and Russia. Whether this had any effect on Secretary of State Dulles is not known.

But yesterday Dulles began to sound like a man more or less reconciled to meeting with the Russians. He didn't, however, say so positively.

Any decision probably will have to wait until after the five-day Bermuda conference, starting Dec. 4, where President Eisenhower, Sir Winston Churchill, France's Premier Joseph Laniel, France's Foreign Minister Georges Bidault Dulles and Eden will gather to discuss their problems and strategy.

The Western foreign ministers suggested a meeting with Russia and laid down the conditions in a note July 15. Moscow replied Aug. 4, agreeing to talk on Germany, but wanting Red China in.

The West replied Sept. 2, refusing to open the door to Red China and restricting the talks to Germany and Austria. Russia replied to this Sept. 28, repeating its demands for a conference seat for Red China, wanting to talk about world problems, agreeing to talk on the German problem, but excluding the subject of all-German elections.

On Oct. 18 the West said there might be a chance to talk on wider problems if, first, the Big Four talks on Germany succeeded. At this point the West practically gave Moscow a blank check on Germany by saying Rusia's Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov could talk on "any aspect" of the question.

Moscow's Nov. 3 replay was harsh: a rambling, 18-page note which scorched the West for turning up its nose at the idea of meeting first with Red China, was very vague on Germany, and tore into the United States for having overseas bases and general defense preparations which Russia called "aggressive."

Russia stubbed its toe with that note. World reaction was bad. The West called it a flat Soviet rejection. Russia had put itself in the position of not wanting to talk peace.

Nevertheless, on Nov. 13 Molotov told a news conference in Moscow Red China had to be included in a conference with the West on general world trouble, a conference which would have to precede Russian talks with the West on Germany.

Then Russia backed down in a note Nov. 26, agreeing to a meeting with Russia and the West first, but warning it wanted China in on a later conference.

Welfare Chief Gets Backing in Fund Dispute

Lausche OKs Robison Move on Federal Aid In Harrison County

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Frank J. Lausche today backed the state welfare director's decision to try to force Harrison County into the federal aid to the permanently disabled program.

The director, Judge Henry J. Robison, said Ohio is losing about three million dollars a year in federal funds because one county, Harrison, won't take part in the program.

The governor today disclosed Robison plans these actions against Harrison County commissioners if they resist participation much longer:

1. Withholding of all state general relief matching funds from the county, estimated to total about $20,000 a year.

2. Request for a State Supreme Court order making the commissioners take part in the program.

The federal program has been going on for three years and the amount of money available to Ohio has increased steadily, Judge Robison said. But Ohio has been unable to take advantage of the federal money because all 88 Ohio counties must participate.

The director made his plans known in a letter that today should be on the desk of John W. Tramburg, new commissioner of social security in Washington.

Robison outlined in the letter the steps his department plans to take to bring Harrison County into the fold.

The Harrison County stand was explained recently in these words by County Commissioner Dwight Cunningham:

"They give us money for this. They give us money for that. And we become used to it. Now they want to give us more money and if we don't take it, they'll cut off what we already have.

"It's high time for us to be weaned."

County officials say they're for "home rule" and against the "welfare state," as they put it.

The state welfare department contends the stand is a pretty expensive one because it deprives the rest of the state of about three million dollars a year available to permanently and totally disabled persons.

Exact figures are not known, but the department thinks there are from 10 to 35 persons in Harrison County who would be eligible for federal aid.

A FAMILY DINNER at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Naher of Pleasant Township, Thanksgiving Day, celebrated the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. Naher's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Naher.

The celebrants were married on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 26, 1903 at the home of Mrs. Naher's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christ Ault in Pleasant Township. The officiating minister was Rev. Copenhaver, pastor of the Reformed Church at Waldo.

They have one son Paul H. Naher, host for the anniversary celebration, and two grandchildren, Richard G. Naher, stationed in San Francisco with the U. S. Navy, and Mary Ann Naher. Mrs. Naher has one brother, George H. Ault of Pleasant Township and Mr. Naher has two sisters, Mrs. Harry Tinkham of Lima and Miss Callie Naher of Findlay.

Police Report Four Accidents

Include One Hit-Skip; All Mishaps Are Minor

Four minor traffic accidents were investigated during the last 24 hours by city police. The state highway patrol and the Marion County sheriff's office reported no accidents in Marion County during the period.

One of the four city accidents was a hit-skip. It occurred at 5:05 p.m. Monday at N. Main and W. Mill Sts. when an unidentified car struck a car driven by Carl E. Miley, 29, of 979 Congress St. Both cars were traveling north on N. Main St., police reported. There was some damage to the right rear fender of Miley's car.

Extensive damage was reported to the left side of a car driven by Edward Stanley, 31, of 781 W. Center St. which was involved in a mishap with a car driven by Sherman E. Powell, 42, of 795 E. Center St. in the 700 block on W. Center St. at 10:49 a.m. Monday. Police said the right front of Powell's car was damaged.

During investigation of the accident, police arrested Stanley on a charge of failure to register a motor vehicle. He was to appear in Municipal Court for a hearing today.

In other city accidents, cars driven by Kenneth B. Kraft, 26, of Detroit and Victoria S. Thomas of 142 N. Seffner Ave. were damaged in a mishap at Main and Center Sts. at 6:35 p.m. Monday. Both were traveling west on Center St., police said.

The rear end of a car driven by Ermin S. Walters, 35, of 426 Girard Ave. was damaged when struck by a car driven by Roscoe J. Rengert, 56, of 269 Forest St. at S. Main and Church Sts. at 5 p.m. yesterday. The right front of Rengert's car was also damaged.

47 Girls Competing For 4-H Congress Fashion Style Title

CHICAGO (AP) — Forty-seven young women prepared today to star in the style highlight of the 32nd national 4-H Club Congress, tonight's "Careerscope" dress revue.

The fashion parade, unique in that each model made her own dress and won a state or territorial prize with it, will show handiwork from 47 states, all except Pennsylvania. Each participant won a leather cased scissors set and an all-expense trip to the congress from the Simplicity Pattern Co.

The winner from Ohio was Sue Christopher, 18, Washington Court House.

Garden awards by Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co. — $300 scholarships and all-expense congress trips — went to Marlene Wilkins, 17, Bluffton, Ohio.

The hand sickle, such as was used by the ancient Egyptians to harvest grain, continued in general use until displaced by the grain cradle in the late 1700's.

SHIPPING SEASON CLOSING

CLEVELAND (AP) — With a new iron ore record now nearly four million tons above the old mark, the lakes shipping season headed into its final stages today.

Movemen tof 432,370 tons by the lake fleet in the week ended yesterday upped the season's mark to 95,838,875.

Ohio Probers Open Cleveland Hearing

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Ohio Un-American Activities Commission came here for a two-day hearing today amid angry challenges from at least two different groups.

Nine persons were under subpoena to appear at the hearing, but State Sen. Joseph W. Bartunek said he expected many "to take refuge behind the Fifth Amendment" and refuse to testify.

The Civil Liberties Union here said "We see little evidence either in its history or its announced intentions that the commission seriously seeks wisdom in solving this problem (of un-American activities)."

At the same time, Don Rothenberg, director of the Ohio Progressive Party, challenged State Rep. Samuel L. Devine of Columbus to debate the commission's legality. Devine is chairman of the commission.

Marion Man Sentenced For Carrying Weapon

A Marion man charged with carrying a concealed weapon was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the Columbus Workhouse when he pleaded guilty yesterday in Marion Municipal Court.

Harold Raymond Hood, 42, of 615 Lee St. was arrested Saturday evening after police got a tip he was carrying a gun. Police said Hood, when searched, had a German made automatic pistol tucked under his belt.

Farm Bureau Hears Blast at Price Supports

Subsidies on Cattle, Dairy Industry Hit At Columbus Meeting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two American farm leaders have levelled off at agricultural price supports.

Speaking at the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation's meeting in Columbus yesterday were G. A. Boger, president of the Lehigh Valley Cooperative Farmers and Herman Aaberg, director of the Livestock Department of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Boger recommended eventual abandonment of price supports in the dairy industry. Aaberg said direct price supports on cattle are unworkable and would do more harm than good.

Since 1945, consumption of milk in the United States had dropped some seven million pounds a year, Boger said. The retail price of milk must be cut if dairy farmers hope to halt the decline, he asserted.

Boger recommended getting away from 90 per cent support prices for dairy products. They should be cut to 75 per cent, he said, and then done away with completely.

Aaberg said farmers have been hurt badly by falling beef prices.

"Compared with two years ago," he said, "choice slaughter steers are down about 30 per cent, utility cows are 55 per cent lower, and feeder steers are off 50 to 60 per cent."

American consumers will get less meat next year because of last year's serious drought, he predicted.

While the federation was discussing the problem of surpluses, Dr. Robert M. Salter, former chief of the Agriculture Department's Soil Conservation Service, said at Ohio State University the present surplus is "obviously temporary."

Salter said Ohio's soil productivity had declined 17 per cent in the last 25 years and even faster declines are taking place elsewhere.

Carey Christmas Plans Include Treasure Hunt

Special to The Star

CAREY — This year's Christmas promotion plans, now being completed by the Carey Businessmen's Association and the Carey Junior Chamber of Commerve, again include: Christmas treasure hunt, window shopping night, street decorations and a large, lighted Christmas tree on the Kemerley lawn on W. Findlay St. and a kiddies' party at the Carey theater.

The Christmas treasure hunt will be Friday night. Merchants began issuing tickets to everyone who entered their stores after Nov. 27. There will be a drawing Dec. 4, and each merchant will contribute a gift. Window shopping night will be held Friday and all windows and stores in Carey will have holiday merchandise for Christmas prominently displayed. Stores will be open until 9 p.m. that night.

The Carey Junior Chamber of Commerce is searching for a 20 to 25 foot tree to be used on the Kemerly lawn. Anyone knowing of one available is asked to phone 12. The organization will again place the Nativity Scene on the lawn of the library.

A schedule for longer store hours during the holiday season has been set by a committee of the Businessmen's Association and will be up for approval at the meeting of the association Wednesday night. Arrangements for the kiddies' Christmas party at the theater are being made and will be announced later.

Cars Collide on Road North of Mt. Gilead

Two persons were injured in the one accident reported today by state patrolmen from the Marion post. The accident happened on State Route 61, six miles north of Mt. Gilead Monday at 1:45 p.m. The two persons were only slightly injured and did not require treatment.

Mrs. Harley Neal Sr. of Mansfield received a bruised right knee; and Janet Kiernan, aged three, of Vanport, Pa, received a bruised right cheek. They were passengers in a car driven by Harley Neal Jr. 20, of Mansfield.

Patrol reports show the car driven by Neal and one driven by Raymond W. Fattig, 22, of near Galion collided. Patrolmen say Fattig had turned into the highway from a township road in the path of Neal's car.

Moderate damage was done to the front ends of both cars. Fattig was cited to appear before Justice of the Peace R. R. Bennington today. He was charged with failure to yield the right of way.

Christmas Star Put Up by Mill

McMillen Symbol To Shine Each Night

The first of many Christmas decorations which will be put up at various places in Marion this year marking the Yuletide season is the large star atop a grain storage bin at McMillen Feed Mills.

This is the third year the star, a symbol of hope and peace for all, has been used at the McMillen plant.

Since the star is nearly 200 feet in the air, it can be seen from all parts of the city. Measuring 10 feet across and made up of 52 100-watt bulbs, the star was first erected in 1951, designed and made by electricians of the maintenance and repair department of the McMillen plant.

For the remainder of this month and through New Year's Day, the star will be lighted nightly.

ANSWER CALL AT GALION

GALION — Galion firemen answered one call Monday afternoon and two Sunday. The fire at 3:05 p.m. Monday was confined to a salamander at the city disposal plant west of the city. The blaze was extinguished by workers before firemen reached the scene. Damage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Herr of Galion at 12:30 a.m. Monday was estimated at about $300. The fire was confined to a wall in the den. The third fire call was Sunday at 10 a.m. at the American Steel Abrasive Co. where damage was confined to the motor of an air compressor.

A University of Illinois dairy marketing specialist says dairy farmers should drink more milk. If each of the 10,000,000 people who live on dairy farms had drunk one extra glass a day last year, they would have used enough milk to reduce the government's stock by one-third.

Draft Choices Could Hold Key to Baseball Trading

13 Minor League Players Called; Tribe Gets Pitcher

ATLANTA (AP)—The major league draft, which netted 13 cut-rate bargains from the minors for $132,500, may have opened the door for future trades and the big league teams may now feel disposed to toss established players into the trade market.

Baltimore, for instance, drafted Vinicio Garcia, a highly touted second baseman from Shreveport and veteran centerfielder Chuck Diering, a proven ball hawk, from San Francisco. That would seem to open up the possibility of a deal involving second baseman Bobby Young or centerfielder Johnny Groth. The Orioles are sadly in need of a first and third baseman as well as pitchers.

Garcia batted .305 last season. He was No. 1 pick in the draft. Diering, former St. Louis Cardinal and New York Giant outfielder, never hit in the majors but is a fine defensive outfielder. He hit .322 with Minneapolis. Detroit endeavored to plug an infield weakness by drafting first baseman Charlie Kress (.317 at Rochester) and second baseman Harry Bright (.259 at Memphis).

Kress, who had been up with Cincinnati and the Chicago White Sox before is a flashy fielder, hit 25 home runs and drove in 121 runs with the International League pennant winners.

The White Sox, in dire need of lefthanders to supplement Billy Pierce, grabbed two southpaw pitchers, Al Sima from Chattanooga and Jocko Thompson from Baltimore of the International League. Both have seen big league service.

Sima was 2-3 with Washington last season and Thompson 10-4 at Baltimore.

Cleveland bolstered its pitching staff by selecting right-hander Dom Fracchia, voted the outstanding player in the Texas League. Fracchia had a 15-12 record with last place Beaumont. The Indians also grabbed an Eastern League standout, shortstop Tom Korczowski, who batted .285 and fielded brilliantly at Wilkes Barre. Korczowski, a Giant farmhand, was taken off the Minneapolis list.

Two of the Brooklyn Dodgers' choice farm prospects were lost in the draft. The Philadelphia Athletics took second baseman Forrest Jacobs, who hit .282 at Fort Worth.

The other Dodger chattel to advance was pitcher Jim Melton (10-10 at Mobile), picked by Cincinnati.

Perhaps two of the prize plums are outfielder Gerry Lynch and pitcher Royce Lint, drafted by the Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Cardinals—respectively. Lynch, a 25-year-old Yankee farmhand, tore up the Class B Piedmont League with a league-leading .333 batting mark before he was advanced to Kansas City. Lynch also topped the circuit with 180 hits, 33 doubles, 22 triples, 320 total bases and 133 runs batted in.

The Chicago Cubs with a bad centerfield problem all last season, chose Luis Marquez, former Brave outfielder. Marquez, batted .292 and stole 37 bases with pennant winning Toledo of the American Association.

Seven of the 16 clubs disdained from the draft including the world champion New York Yankees and National League pennant winning Brooklyn Dodgers.

Two clubs signed new coaches. The White Sox signed Marty Marion, former manager of both St Louis clubs and the Athletics named Augie Galan. Marion replaces Roger Cramer. Galan managed Oakland last season.

Bird-McGinnis showed signs of being a threat in the Y Independent League this year by dumping Wesley Methodist 48-36 in the second game. The Legion took a 9-7 first quarter lead and gradually stretched the margin throughout the game. Tom Moran was the leading point getter for Bird-McGinnis with 13 while Don Williams followed with 11. Jim Ruth had 12 for Wesley.

Wilson Named To Direct U.S. Olympic Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — American Olympic officials today start choosing the men to be entrusted with seeing to it that the United States retains its unofficial world championship in the 1956 Olympics.

And for the first time since the 1924 games, over-all supervision will rest in the hands of someone other than Avery Bundage.

The new boss of the U.S. Olympic Assn. is Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson, best known to American sports fans as commissioner of the Big Ten. He had been vice president of the Olympic association, and was elevated to the top job upon the retirement of Brundage. He will keep his Big Ten post.

Brundage decided to give up his U. S. Olympic position because of his recent selection as president of the International Olympic Committee. He figured it might lead to charges of bias if he held both jobs at the same time.

The 300 delegates to the quadrennial meeting of the association yesterday selected the committees which will direct activities in the various events of the 1956 Olympics at Melbourne, Australia and the 1955 Pan American Games at Mexico City.

Committee chairmen were to be chosen today. Coaches of the various squads will be named later and announced by Asa Bushnell, who was re-elected secretary of the U. S. association.

Also elected yesterday were: Douglas F. Roby of Detroit, retiring president of the Amateur Athletic Union, to be vice president, and R. Max Ritter of Philadelphia to be treasurer, succeeding Owen Van Camp of Chicago, who has retired.

Baltimore Grid Officials Deny Shift Planned

BALTIMORE (AP)—Keith Molesworth, head coach of the Baltimore Colts pro football team, said last night "no one knows whether he is coming or going' on the coaching staff and "I had heard rumors about (my) being fired."

However, the Colts' front office, toned down any talk of discontent, and Don Kellett, president and general manager, said he was "completely surprised" at the report.

At the same time, the Baltimore Sun reported it had learned authoritatively that Molesworth was slated to take over the football helm at the University of Virginia Molesworth said he had been approached by a representative from Virginia and also had received several other offers but declined to say what they were.

At Charlottesville, Va., Gus K. Tebell, athletic director at Virginia, stated L. McDonald would remain head coach there. Tebell called the Baltimore report "ridiculous" and added, "McDonald is our coach and is going to remain our coach."

Seek Second Win

Harding Cage Team Faces First Road Test at Galion

Harding takes to the road tonight in quest of its second victory of the basketball season against an untried Galion squad.

Illness and injuries have hit the Harding squad. Listed as sick are Gene Armstrong and Phil Carroll who was second high man with 13 points in the opening 61-47 victory over Bexley.

Carroll won't be starting and may not even be able to make the trip. Armstrong will be out several days with tonsilitis. Meanwhile, Joe Snouffer is still nursing a football shoulder injury.

Coach Jim Lawler is still in doubt about his starting lineup tonight. His definite starters will be Dave Schnelker at center, Max Kaelber at one of the forwards and Ron Conroy in one of the guard slots.

At the other forward Lawler will use either Marv McFann or Bob Hamor with either Don Smith or Doug Bibler at the other guard.

Tonight will be the second outing for the Prexies. Conroy was the high scorer with 14 in the season opener last Wednesday.

It will be Galion's first contest of the year so little is known about the hosts, but Lawler expects plenty of trouble from Tom Quay, Galion's 6-4 center.

Activities tonight are scheduled to get under way with the reserve tilt at 7. Al Beach, coach of the Vice Presidents, is expected to use Lowell Carlisle at center, Lowell McFann and Dave Lockwood at the forwards and Harold Jones and Keith Thackery at the guards.

Harding's Jayvees will also be after their second win in as many starts after squeezing by the Bexley reserves 34-32 last week. Carlisle and Lockwood were the high-pointers in that contest with seven points each.

Barons Resume Play

Johnstown and Cincinnati Share First Place in IHL

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Johnstown Jets today held a piece of the lead in the tightly packed International Hockey League. It was the first time the former Eastern League entry had climbed to the top in the weekly standings.

The Pennsylvania club shared 23 points and the berth with the Cincinnati Mohawks. The Jets beat the Hawks 3-1 last week and won its other game from Toledo. Cincinnati also lost to Troy. Its 8-1 setback was its worst defeat in its IHL history.

However, Rolly McLenahan's skaters play four games this week, three of them on the home ice in the Cincinnati gardens.

Grand Rapids climbed to third spot in winning two and losing two. A win tonight at Fort Wayne, coupled with a Cincinnati defeat at the hands of Toledo, would tangle the league in a three-way tie.

Troy, Marion, Louisville and Fort Wayne were tied for fourth place with 20 points, a win and a half out of the lead. So practically any one of the 15 games this week could change the league standings.

Louisville and Marion both won two of three tilts last week. Defeats Sunday ended a six-game winning streak for the Kentucky Stars and a four game skein for the Ohio Barons.

The Barons will play host to the last-place Milwaukee team tomorrow night at the Coliseum.

Toledo went to eighth place with a pair of losses against one victory Last place Milwaukee also dropped two of three.

UNSER HIRED

ATLANTA (AP)—Al Unser, former catcher for Detroit and Cincinnati, was named manager of the Augusta Rams of the Class A South Atlantic League today.

SHORT SPORTS

By John Short

When Bob Feller presented awards Friday night to Marion's Little League and Pony League baseball players, there were two who between the end of the baseball season and the program had fought a different, and much tougher game.

SHORT

They were John Keller and his kid brother, Ronnie, who received awards as members of Wilhelm's National League champions. Only six weeks ago, both boys were fighting off the effects of polio attacks.

John, 11, was a regular member of the team during the season while eight-year-old Ronnie was the team's mascot. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keller of 1199 E. Church St.

Ronnie was struck by the dread disease July 11 and was admitted to Children's Hospital at Columbus. John came down on Aug. 8 and was taken to the same hospital. They are the only children in the family.

Karl Saenger, manager of the Wilhelm team, says both have been home for slightly more than a month and are almost completely recovered from the polio attacks.

During their stay in the hospital, the brothers received a letter signed by the members of the team, urging them to keep their chins up and 'stay in fighting.' Their parents told Saenger it was the most appreciated note received during the boys' stay in the hospital.

TRAVELING MAN. Del St. John, who started the hockey season with the Marion Barons, seems to have found a home with the fading Toledo Mercurys. Del was picked up by the Louisville Shooting Stars after his release from the local club.

After four games there, he was released and picked up by Toledo. Toledo fans are high in their praise of the rough speed merchant.

Dudley Hanover Retired

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP)—Dudley Hanover, one of the nation's top money-winning pacers, has been retired to stud, an official of the Hayes Fair Acres Stables said yesterday.

D. M. Hayes, co-owner of Fair Acres, said the decision to end the 6-year-old's racing days followed Dudley's triumph Saturday in the Golden West pace at Inglewood, Calif.

Dudley was third among money-winning pacers last year with earnings of $87,994. He is the son of Billy Direct, the champion pacer of all time.

Maryland Ends Season as No. 1 Team in Nation

NEW YORK (AP)—Maryland, the only college football team to go through a major schedule without a defeat or a tie, won the 1953 national collegiate football championship from undefeated but once-tied Notre Dame.

Maryland, winner of 10 games and headed for a New Year's Day engagement with Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl, earned the coveted O'Donnell Trophy in the final Associated Press ranking poll of the season.

The O'Donnell Trophy, donated by the Notre Dame Monogram Club in honor of the late Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, former Notre Dame football player who became president of that institution, is awarded annually as a national championship emblem on the basis of the Associated Press poll.

Maryland succeeds Michigan State as holder of the trophy, which will be awarded outright to the first team to win it three times.

The final 1953 poll brought out a record number of 376 votes and even Maryland's idleness last Saturday while Notre Dame was thumping Southern California 48-14 failed to change the opinion of the sports writers and broadcasters who voted the Terps into first place last week.

Notre Dame has one more game to play—against Southern Methodist next Saturday—but nearly all the other major college teams have ended their seasons. Notre Dame, the preseason favorite, had been first in every poll until tied by Iowa Nov. 21.

In the showdown vote, Maryland received 187 first-place ballots and 3,365 points to 141 firsts and 3,149 points for Notre Dame. Points are awarded on the basis of 10 for a first-place vote, nine for second, etc.

The first 10 teams (first-place votes in parentheses):

1.	Maryland (187)	3,365
2.	Notre Dame (141)	3,149
3.	Michigan State (8)	2,756
4.	Oklahoma (10)	2,591
5.	UCLA (1)	2,007
6.	Rice (2)	1,388
7.	Illinois	1,248
8.	Georgia Tech	839
9.	Iowa (10)	576
10.	West Virginia (14)	452

Iowa Gridders Win Berths on Honor Squad

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)—Glittering with one of the strongest backfields ever produced by the area, the 1953 All-Western football team selected today by The Associated Press was led by Notre Dame with three honored players.

Eight schools contributed to the mythical team which had for its backfield Paul Giel of Minnesota, Johnny Lattner of Notre Dame, J. C. Caroline, of Illinois and Alan (The Horse) Ameche of Wisconsin.

Co-champions Illinois and Michigan State of the Big Ten and Oklahoma, Big Seven titlist, each placed only one man.

Iowa which held Notre Dame to a 14-14 tie in perhaps the season's most dramatic game surprisingly placed two stars from its bristling line—center Jerry Hilgenberg and guard Calvin Jones, who with Caroline won a coveted all-Western berth as a sophomore.

The honor team, selected by The Associated Press after consultation with coaches, scouts and sports writers, also included Don Dohoney of Michigan State College at end, Don Penza and Art Hunter of Notre Dame at end and tackle respectively, J. D. Roberts of Oklahoma at guard and George Jacoby of Ohio State at tackle.

The honor quarterback post goes to Giel, who although a tailback, called signals for Minnesota's Gophers. Giel, winning All-Western stardom for the third straight year, closed his career as the only college player in history to handle the ball more than 1,000 times over three seasons. The Gopher great handled the ball 1,056 times and set three Big Ten records this year.

Caroline won plaudits as Illinois' greatest ball carrier since Red Grange and broke Grange's overall offense record for one season. Caroline, angular Negro speedster from Columbia, S. C., led the nation in rushing with 1,256 yards on 194 carries.

Lattner was Notre Dame's "clutch" player. An All-Western selection on defense under the two-platoon system last year, Lattner carried the ball for the Irish when it counted this year.

Ameche, on last year's AP offensive team, proved a fine defensive man and continued as a Bronko Nagurski type line smasher. Like Caroline and Giel, Ameche seldom was brought down by the first man to tackle him. The 205-pound Ameche is the all-star team's sole junior.

The All-Western line, averaging a comparatively light 206 pounds, boasts seven of the area's fastest, most spirited performers. Excepting Jones, a 210-pound Tiger, all are seniors.

The 219-pound Jacoby, named Ohio State's most valuable player this year, was All-Western offensive tackle last year. His tackle runningmate, Notre Dame's 226-pound Hunter, was a fine play-destroyer for the Irish.

Second team:

Ends—Bob Topp, Michigan, and John Ryan, Illinois

Tackles—Stavros Canakes, Minnesota and Roger Nelson, Oklahoma

Guards—Jan Smid, Illinois, and Tom Bettis, Purdue

Center—Jerry Helgeson, Minnesota

BACKS—Ralph Guglielmi, Notre Dame; Leroy Bolden, Michigan State; Larry Grig, Oklahoma; and Neil Worden, Notre Dame.

Valdes Called Biggest Threat To Marciano

NEW YORK (AP)—Nino Valdes, the lanky Cuban who holds the Central American and Cuban heavyweight crown, has taken over the No. 1 position of heavyweight contender in Ring magazine's world ratings announced today.

Valdes, the first foreign heavyweight in years to become No. 1 contender, proved his right to a shot at Rocky Marciano's title by knocking out European titleholder Heinz Neuhaus in the fourth round at Dortsmound, Germany, according to Ring.

The rise of Valdes to the high post previously occupied by Roland LaStarza is the major change in the ratings released by Editor Nat Fleischer. Neuhaus has been dropped from fifth to seventh place and Earl Walls, Canada's top heavyweight, has advanced from seventh to fifth.

LaStarza dropped to second spot, Ezzard Charles is in third and Dan Bucceroni in fourth place.

In the light heavyweight class, Yolande Pompee of Trinidad moved ahead of Danny Nardico, who dropped to fourth place.

H. M. SHEVNAN, widely known expert of Chicago, will personally be at the Harding Hotel, Marion, Wednesday Only, December 2, from 9 A.M. to 4 P.M.

Mr. Shevnan says: The Zoetic Shield is a tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. A nationally known scientific method. No under straps or cumbersome arrangements and absolutely no medicines or medical treatments.

Mr. Shevnan will be glad to demonstrate without charge.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Safety belts in automobiles could save thousands of lives in highway accidents, an American Medical Assn. exhibit suggested today.

It finds that 453 out of 633 persons killed in one year in Indiana probably could have survived by some safety changes. They were not killed by accordion collapse of their cars. They died from being thrown and tossed. Safety belts, crash helmets, or safety changes within cars apparently could have given them a new ticket on life.

The exhibition is presented by Sgt. Elmer Paul, head of the auto crash injury research section, Indiana state police, and Trooper John B. Klein. It is part of a symposium on prevention of highway deaths at the AMA's midwinter meeting opening today.

Of 633 persons killed in accidents analyzed in 1952, more than half died of skull fractures, 15 percent from neck injuries, and 22 per cent from chest injuries. Many of the chest injuries were drivers flung against steering wheels or posts.

It is not just high speed which kills, Paul said. Two little girls were killed by being flung out the door of the back seat when their car, moving at 20 miles an hour, was hit obliquely by another machine.

A man's car skidded, struck a pole, and suffered only $150 damage. The man slid across the seat, out the opened door and died when his head hit a pole.

Safety belts, just as one means of saving lives, are being installed now by some car owners, Paul said. And 25 Indiana state police cars now are equipped with them. A harness-type belt, holding the chest and shoulders back; is better than the airplane seat-belt type, he added.

The right front seat is one of the greatest danger spots. A study of passengers only, excluding what happened to drivers, found that 70 per cent of passengers killed were riding in the right front seat, and 23 per cent in rear seats.

MEETING CALLED OFF

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A meeting of the Republican State Committee scheduled for today has been postponed indefinitely because of the illness of Ray C. Bliss, state GOP chairman. Bliss is being treated for a virus infection at Akron City Hospital.

Greenville, Mich., Blaze Fatal to 4 Young Boys

GREENVILLE, Mich. (AP)—Four young brothers suffocated today when trapped in an upstairs bedroom as fire raced through the first floor of their frame home. The oldest gave his life heroically in a vain effort to save his three brothers.

Their two sisters escaped—one by jumping from a second story window.

The victims were James McAllister, 14, and his brothers, Vernon, 10; Ronnie, 9; and L. D., 6. The sisters, Jean, 10, and Reva, escaped.

Modern Selling Plan Ruins Old Apple Barrels

ITHACA, N. Y. (UP) — The old apple barrel, once a familiar fixture in every grocery, is rapidly disappearing from the American scene.

Apple men say that of all apples sold in retail stores this year, more than 75 per cent will be prepackaged in polyethylene plastic bags. Others will be in mesh bags and paper-window bags. Few will be in open bins or barrels.

That's a far cry from four years ago when the universal practice was to sell apples in bulk displays of two or three-pound units.

This revolution in marketing methods is considered amazing by apple men. It's also considered a shot in the arm for apple sales which were declining steadily. It's increased sales by two-thirds in self-service stores.

The switch came quietly and almost without notice. It was ignored at first by many conservative market owners, but most of them now are resigned to the demise of the apple barrel.

The reason is simple. Grocery shoppers expressed a preference for pre - packaged apples and bought more when the fruit was in polyethylene bags. Apple marketers, worried about their product, gladly obliged.

The credit for discovering the shopper's preference for bags goes to a group of Cornell University scientists.

For three years, these scientists, under the supervision of Dr. Max Brunk of the Department of Agriculture Economics, College of Argiculture Economics, College of Agriculture, Cornell University, conducted tests in self-service supermarkets in large and small cities of central New York. They asked no questions. They merely offered different displays of apples and recorded the shoppers' preferences.

This is what the scientists discovered:

1. Pre-packaged apples consistently outsold apples displayed only in bulk by about 40 per cent, with about 90 per cent of the shoppers who bought apples taking the bagged fruit.

2. Polyethylene was the most effective packaging material, followed by purple mesh, pliofilm, paper window, and red mesh.

3. Six-pound units sold more apples, especially if pre-packaged in polyethylene bags. This combination, offered along with a bulk display, outsold larger and smaller units by from 23 to 42 per cent. Five-pound units came next, followed by four, eight and ten.
